Washington — Ratification of the Kellogg anti-war treaty is the first step in an even greater movement for the prevention of war. The next development is an international discussion of the limitation of armaments.

Friends of an expanded navy have feared all along that the moral effect of the adoption of the anti-war treaty would be a holding back on naval construction. And their fears were well grounded.

Peace societies and various organizations which believe there is an inconsistency in building a large navy at the same time that a gesture toward peace is being made by America have flooded members of congress with their views and they will vigorously oppose the administration's building program.

WOULD KEEP PARITY

The men who are responsible, however, for the maintenance of an adequate navy insist that the United States should keep her navy on an equality with that of Great Britain. The treaty of 1921 which limited the size of battleships provided what is known as a 5-5-3 ratio wherein the American and British navies were to be of the same size and Japan was to have three-fifths of the size of the American and British navies.

Ever since the limitation of battleships was imposed, there has been a dispute as to whether the United States really has kept a navy of equal strength to that of Great Britain even on battleships for to elevate a gun means additional range. The question of limiting cruisers, destroyers, submarines and auxiliary craft has never been settled between the powers. The international parleys thus far have failed.

The problem therefore now is whether the United States should yield to the sentiment of those who want arbitrarily to limit the size of the American navy before there is agreement between the various nations and whether the construction shall be authorized and then discontinued whenever there is a definite agreement as to the number and size of all war craft.

The difficulty now is that the practical aspects are being superseded by the sentimental. The true strength of a navy takes into account all sorts of auxiliary vessels including mer-

Dry Law To Claim Lifer In Michigan

Jury Finds Tony Papich Guilty as Fourth Offender — He Blames Wife

Manistiquie, Mich. — (AP) — A circuit court jury found Tony Papich guilty of a liquor charge after an hour's deliberation here Thursday. The present conviction makes a life sentence mandatory under the provisions of the Michigan Habitual Criminal code, as he has been convicted four previous times. A quantity of moonshine for which he blamed his wife, was found in his home.

Papich testified that Ernest Laboe, of Rochester, N. Y., a clothing salesman, was in his home with Mrs. Papich just before he was arrested on the liquor charge in this case. Papich said he beat up Laboe and then called the sheriff, in his testimony before a jury of five women and seven men before the court adjourned late Wednesday afternoon.

Six witnesses testified for the state Wednesday before Papich took the stand. Laboe was one of the witnesses.

FORMER CONVICTIONS

The prosecution presented certified copies of four previous cases in which Papich had been convicted on liquor charges. A fourth conviction, under the Michigan Habitual Criminal code, means life imprisonment.

Papich's case is the first to be tried in the upper Michigan under the provisions of the new state code. However, all four of Papich's previous convictions occurred before the law went into effect.

Papich's arrest was brought about when the sheriff's deputies found 12 gallons of moonshine, 7 gallons of beer and a keg of wine in his home on Oct. 26. These, he told the jury, must have been taken there by his wife. He averred that the day before, when he was last home, they were not there and testified that once when he had seen his wife with a bottle of moonshine he had taken it from her and broken it.

On one previous conviction, Papich served two years in Leavenworth prison on another, six months in the Detroit House of Correction. Three of the four convictions were in federal court.

BREWERS HEAD IS VICTIM OF STROKE

Henry J. Killilea in Critical Condition in Milwaukee Hospital

Milwaukee — (AP) — Henry J. Killilea, attorney and president of the Milwaukee American association baseball club, Thursday suffered a stroke and was taken to a local hospital in a critical condition.

Mr. Killilea's entire right side was paralyzed by the stroke, according to hospital attendants. They said that the baseball magnate suffered the attack about 7 o'clock in the morning.

The announcement came as a surprise to the associates of Mr. Killilea as he had apparently been in excellent health until Thursday.

Killilea is an outstanding figure in the baseball world, having been one of the founders of the American League when it was formed in Milwaukee in 1901.

Although his club, the Milwaukee Brewers, was forced out of the ranks of the junior circuit into the American association, Killilea continued his interest in his league circles, where he was said to be an influential personage.

4 BUILDINGS ARE RAZED IN WAUSAU FIRE

Department Battles Flames for Four Hours—Loss Set at $160,000

Wausau — (AP) — A spectacular fire which swept through four buildings in the heart of the business district Thursday morning was brought under control at noon after the entire fire department battled the flames for more than four hours.

Early estimates of the loss placed the damage at more than $160,000. The fire was discovered at 7:30, and soon after all four companies of the fire department were called. Streams of water were poured over the buildings from every possible direction but flames were still breaking forth in different sections at noon.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but the fire department chief expressed the belief that it started either in the basement of the Vangelis restaurant or from a defective chimney in the adjoining McAllister variety store. The fire swept through both structures and then jumped to the Stein Bros. Clothing store and the Swanberg Drug store.

HOTEL ENDANGERED

For a time it was believed the fire would threaten the Hotel Wausau, the largest building in the downtown district. A dense smoke spread over the entire district and drove back the crowds which surged about the fire.

The burned buildings are directly across from the courthouse and spectators used the latter building and others in the vicinity as vantage points from which to view the fire. The dense smoke forced three stores in the street to close their doors, the proprietors fearing that their stock would be ruined. Street car service was halted for a time, but passengers completed their journey by walking around the fire to cars that stood waiting.

Most of the loss was covered by insurance, the owners of the buildings said.

BIG LOSS AT MENOMINEE

Menominee — (AP) — Loss expected to exceed $100,000 resulted from a fire here at 3 o'clock Thursday which destroyed the C. and O. garage. Between 40 and 50 company and stored cars were burned. The building, a three-story brick structure, was blazing fiercely when the fire was discovered.

Roads were in such condition that outside fire departments could not have reached here in time to be of any assistance but the local department was able to prevent the flames from spreading to nearby buildings. Origin of the fire is not known.

3 FIREMEN HURT

Chicago — (AP) — Three firemen were injured, damage totaling $350,000 resulted, and 50 street cars carrying workers downtown were stalled early Thursday, as two fires raged in the "Loop" district.

Fire officials were in doubt as to the origin of the blaze which caused $100,000 damages to the Pancoe building annex, where the firemen were injured. Fire appeared to have broken out simultaneously in the basement of fourth floor, and there was evidence that it had been fed by gasoline. Fire Marshall Michael Corrigan said.

The first blaze was on S. Wells-st. in the Loop section, and the second, causing more than $50,000 damage, was near the Loop on W. Taylor-st. After 24 fire companies had fought for three hours, damage in the Taylor-st. fire mounted to more than $100,000. The Eagle Wrapping Products company, which occupied the building.

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF MAN AT RACINE

Racine — (AP) — A chemical analysis of the stomach of John Grabowski, who died at the home of Michael Dziedec here Tuesday, was ordered by the coroner following requests for this action by relatives of the dead man.

According to Grabowski's relatives, he had been living with John Sateczka, Milwaukee, until last Sunday. At that time Dr. Sateczka drove to Milwaukee and came back with Grabowski. A post mortem after his death revealed that the man died from a heart disease. Relatives, however, were not ready to accept the diagnosis and so the city chemist will make his analysis.

DODGE-CO BOARD MEN VOTE AGAINST MERGER

Juneau — (AP) — A proposal made recently for the merger of Dodge and Jefferson counties, with the county seat to be fixed at Watkinson, was unanimously disapproved by the Dodge-county board here Wednesday. The board declared it would see no likelihood of cutting taxation in the two counties through such a merger. The board also rejected a proposal to establish a county report at a tentatively selected site three miles north of this city.

$50,000 Fire Loss When Oshkosh Building Burns

Oshkosh — (AP) — Gaining a good start before an alarm brought the entire Oshkosh fire department, a spectacular fire Wednesday night destroyed the interior of the large three story brick building on Main-st. that was being remodeled as the future home of Sears, Roebuck and Co., retail store. The loss was expected to exceed $50,000.

The building was vacated Saturday by the Konrad Furniture company, which sold the building to the Merchants Building company headed by W. J. Hay, Jr. The blaze raged for two hours before firemen, playing eight streams of water, extinguished it. All that remained when the fire had done its work were the walls and a small section of the second floor.

The building is at the corner of Main-st. principal business thoroughfare, and Marion-st.

When firemen arrived the flames had shot up the elevator shaft and spread throughout the structure. The fire increased in intensity despite the efforts of the firefighters. The roof caved in first and one after the other, the third and second floors dropped. The north wall adjoined the large brick building of the Kumerow Furniture company. It bulged in the middle but did not collapse.

In spite of a 10 above zero temperature, a crowd of 1,500 persons witnessed the vain attempt of the firemen to save the structure. The origin is unknown, and Chief Fred Lambert would not hazard a guess.

The property is valued at more than $150,000 and was heavily covered by insurance. The building was vacant except for some materials being used by the C. R. Meyer and Sons company in the remodeling of the building which was to have been opened in two weeks by the Chicago firm.

Soft Drink Parlor Operators Fined $200 and Costs in Court

Two Appleton soft drink parlor operators were fined $200 and costs each by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday morning when they pleaded guilty of violating the state prohibition laws.

They are August Brandt, owner of a soft drink parlor at 1428 W. Second-st., and Julie Smith, owner of an establishment at 116 S. State-st.

Both men were arrested late Wednesday afternoon when a squad of state prohibition officers, headed by Edward Sullivan, and Police Chief George T. Prim and Sgt. Mathew McGinnis raided their places.

At Smith's the men found three pints of whiskey behind the wainscoting of the wall in a narrow hallway leading from the rear of the place. At Brandt's the officers discovered three bottles of whiskey behind the bar.

The squad also raided two other saloons but found no evidence.

Kabul, Afghanistan — (AP) — King Inayatullah, in whose favor Amirullah abdicated a few days ago, surrendered at 10 o'clock Thursday morning the Kabul citadel to a superior force of the rebel "Bacha Sakao" who was proclaimed Habibullah Khan and thus became Afghanistan's third monarch this week.

MOSCOW — (AP) — A wireless report from Kabul received here Thursday said that King Inayatullah, who succeeded his younger brother, Amirullah, as king of Afghanistan a few days ago, had himself abdicated.

The message said that the abdication was conditioned upon a guarantee of safety for Inayatullah and all members of his household.

Will Be Honored at All-state Demonstration — to Be Guest on Isle

Washington — (AP) — President-elect Hoover will leave here at 10:30 Monday morning for Miami Beach, Fla., where he will be the guest of J. C. Penny on Belle Isle for a little more than a month.

Mr. Hoover expected to arrive at Miami at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon to participate in a monster all-state demonstration which is being arranged in honor of his visit to the state which with three others in the once solidly Democratic south gave him a majority last November.

The governor and other high state officials will be on hand to officially welcome the president-elect and it is planned also to have all the counties in the state represented. After the welcome in Miami the president-elect and his party will proceed in escorted motor cars to Miami Beach and thence across a causeway to the Penny estate.

The trip to Miami is to be made on a special train on the Atlantic Coast line and the Florida East Coast railway. It was stated Thursday at Hoover headquarters that there would be no stops enroute except those necessary for operating purposes.

Besides his personal and office staff of a half dozen or more, Mr. Hoover will be accompanied to Florida by nearly two score photographers who will make their headquarters either at Miami Beach or Miami.

The present plans of the president-elect are to return here about two weeks before the date of his inauguration in order to continue conferences with Republican leaders. At the outset he plans to take a rest and engage in his favorite sport of fishing. He looks forward to some real sport in landing the tarpon and other large game fish which abound in Florida state waters.

After that, Mr. Hoover will get work on his inaugural address which he expects to have in final form before he sets out on his return ship to the national capital.

'Wild Man From Borneo' Dies Pauper, Dreaming Of His Days Of Glory

Platteville — (AP) — The "wild man from Borneo," who scared and awed the circus crowds some 40 years ago, was buried quietly here Wednesday night in a pauper's grave. He was no longer a "wild man" but just plain Sylvester Henderson, pauper so quietly buried was this man, who claimed he was the original "wild man" that most of the citizens in this little southern Wisconsin town did not know his funeral had taken place. To them, anyway, he was just "Ves" Henderson, 52, who lived by himself in a little shack at the edge of town.

"Ves" had lived in that shack until a week ago. Then officials went there and found him, still with the long hair and "wild man" accoutrements, raving wildly at the circus posters which marked his early triumphs. The hut was a shanty, he had no money, and he was sick. So they took him to the county poorhouse. His "Borneo" earnings had vanished. The poorhouse did not agree with "Ves" and he died, estranged from his wife and five children.

In 1875, "Ves" Henderson was the "dude" earlier residents said, and the most sought after pauper in town. He had money, he was handsome. But to "Ves" the plaudits of the circus crowds were not enough. He let his wavy flaxen hair grow until it reached his waist. He studied rolling his eyes and glaring.

One day, Ringling's circus came to town. He went in to see Al Ringling, the proprietor.

"Who are you?" asked Al, eyeing his strange visitor.

"I'm the wild man from Borneo," growled "Ves."

"So you are," agreed Al. "You're hired."

For 20 years "Ves" stayed with the circus game. Clad in rags and carrying a bone, he was the central attraction for big-eyed little boys and girls who stood around his cage and listened to him growl and roar. Their parents watched him, too. As the wild man of Borneo, his name was emblazoned on screaming posters.

But being a "wild man" away from home palled on "Ves". So he went back to Platteville for a brief visit. There he met a girl named Mary. They were married, and "Ves" gave up his wild man job. He started a harness shop and for some years he and his family lived peacefully. Finally he began to drink. His wife and children left him. And he went to live in a little hut.

They tell in Platteville of how all "Ves" used to do in three last days was to help a man with a fish wagon who came up from the near-by Miesville river, to sell his fish to the proprietor.

Then he stopped doing even that and secluded himself in his hut.

Ambition overtook him once more. He died. A few years ago he let his hair grow again and started looking for another wild man job. But the times were different and the market for wild men was glutted. He went back home to spend his last days.

His "wild man" hair was cut off when he was taken to the county home. He protested freely but bitterly against this indignity.

One morning they found "Ves" dead in his room. The wild man was buried quietly, drawn to the cemetery not behind the prancing black chargers which drew his cage in circus parades, but in a motor-driven hearse.

SOLONS MOVE CONFAB FOR TWO GROUPS

Both Houses Pass Resolution for Meeting in Effort to Arbitrate

Madison — (AP) — Intervention by state authorities to attempt a settlement of the dispute between Wisconsin Milk producers and Chicago distributors was requested Thursday by the legislature when the assembly concurred in Senator John C. Schumann's joint session passed Wednesday by the senate.

The resolution calls upon W. A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture, and J. T. Vint, commissioner of markets, to appoint a mediation group to meet with producers and distributors.

John W. Eber, Milwaukee, who was refused Progressive support for reelection as speaker of the assembly, Thursday resigned from the judiciary committee, chairman of which is Alvin C. Reis, Madison, who defeated Mr. Eber in the Progressive caucus. N. R. Kluge, Milwaukee, was appointed by Speaker Perry to succeed Mr. Eber.

More than 12 bills were received in the assembly, and six by the senate. Among the assembly measures was one by Lee D. Eastman, Lancaster, who would place automobile registration in the hands of county clerks. Mr. Eastman's bill, which is modeled after the Iowa registration system would remove the weight and letter classification from license plates, and would put a number designation for counties. The drivers' licenses would also be issued by county clerks.

Another auto license measure appeared in the senate, brought in by Robert Caldwell, Lodi. He would have county clerks distribute license plates, and asks for a 4-cent gasoline tax.

BILL ON SHERIFFS

Assemblyman C. A. Beggs presented a bill which would permit sheriffs to serve two consecutive terms.

A change in the state's pure food laws to permit the use of not more than one-tenth of 1 per cent benzoate of soda in pure fruit syrups used in preparing non-intoxicating beverages is requested in Senator Merrill White's bill.

Senator Thomas Duncan, in a resolution which he termed the opening measure in the legislative public utilities fight, commended Mayor George W. Mead, Wisconsin Rapids, "for his courageous stand in opposition to the Insull power interests" in vetoing a franchise granted by the city council.

A change in the state's boxing code to require referees to render a decision at the end of each bout was introduced by Senator Irving P. Mahigan, Milwaukee.

A resident fishing license costing $1 would be required of all fishermen within the state by a bill introduced by Senator H. B. Dargatz, Milwaukee. The state, through the conservation commission, now requires a $2 license for all who come into Wisconsin to fish.

ACT ON RESOLUTION

Madison — (AP) — In obedience to the legislature's instruction, W. A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture, and J. T. Vint, commissioner of markets, plan to go to Chicago Friday to attempt a settlement of the dispute between milk producers of the state and Chicago distributors.

POPE IS HOMESICK FOR ALPS AS SNOW BEDECKS COUNTRY

Rome — (AP) — The unusual spectacle of all Italy, from the Alps and the Apennines to Naples and Sicily, covered with snow was afforded Thursday morning to the population and a vanguard of winter tourists.

A terrific gale which hit Genoa and nearby resorts on the Italian Riviera Wednesday night reached Rome early Thursday morning. It caused a colossal clatter and banging of shutters, falling chimney pots and brought snow in its wake.

When Pope Pius opened the window of his apartment on the top floor of the Vatican Thursday morning he could see the Alban and Sabine hills surrounding Rome snowcapped like his own beloved Alps over which he tramped as a young seminarian in the north of Italy.

The pontiff remarked to one of his intimates that the unusual sight made him homesick. He stood for a long time admiring the view. Farther to the south both Mount Vesuvius and Etna were snowcapped.

Council To Choose New Army Chief

Booth Will Fight for His Position at Head of Salvation Army

Lodon — (AP) — The choice of a new head of the Salvation army by the high council which Wednesday night elected General Bramwell Booth, adjutant general in an unit condition to continue his leadership, is now the next important development in affairs of the army which have evolved so dramatically during the past two weeks.

Commissioner Hay, as president of the council, Thursday evening less of a formal notice of the council's decision by a vote of 55 to 3 to relieve the general of his command, but gave no intimation of what further steps would be taken.

One of the army officials at the hotel where Evangeline Booth, American commander and leader of the "reform" movement, is making her headquarters said that the council will meet Friday to elect a new commander and to take legal steps, if necessary, to obtain possession of the army's huge property now vested personally in Bramwell Booth.

During the morning a notice signed by the Salvation army solicitors was displayed outside of international headquarters. It touched on the question of authority in the army during the period between the deposition of general Booth and the selection of his successor. The notice read:

PUT OFFICIAL IN CHARGE

"During the interval between the vacation of office by any general of the Salvation army and the appointment of his successor, the chief of staff is authorized and empowered under the constitutional deeds of the Salvation army to exercise with certain specific limitations all powers and discretions pertaining to the generalship."

Meanwhile General Booth is expected to carry the fight for command to the courts. The Daily Mail Thursday quoted him as saying:

"I haven't much money but I will spend what I have in defending my position."

"Nothing will induce me to retire from the position I occupy. It was and is a sacred one imposed on me by my father and it is not for me to lay it down. I should be a coward—worse than a coward, a skunk—if I do so because there is a bit of rum and I won't."

"I will resist by every means in my power every attempt to deprive me of my trust."

Should the matter reach the courts it was assumed that legality of the council's action would turn on what constituted unitary.

Thursday she said she is going to introduce a bill to compel street car companies to take only passengers for whom there are seats and to provide more cars in order to handle those who have hitherto clung precariously to straps.

PICKETS HALT 50 TRUCKS ON WAY TO PLANT

Delivery Permitted After Sheriff's Force Prevents Outbreak

VIOLENCE IN ILLINOIS

Pickets Meet Farmers Near Waukegan and Pour Out Part of Supply

Kenosha — (AP) — A clash between striking members of the Chicago Pure Milk Producers association and dairy farmers attempting to make deliveries to the plant of the Weiland Dairy Co., of Chicago, at Silver Lake, Wis., 20 miles west of here, was narrowly averted late Thursday morning by Sheriff Steve Robinson, undersheriff Joseph Knipser and two deputies who rushed to the plant from Kenosha.

Approximately 50 of the 85 farmers who have been delivering milk to the plant despite the strike, were halted by pickets, belonging to the Beloit, Wis., unit of the producers association, when they attempted to make their deliveries Thursday morning. The pickets were about 20 in number.

The strikers, who had threatened to dump the farmers' milk into roadside ditch, permitted them to deliver it to the plant following the arrival of the authorities.

It is reported that the other 35 farmers, who have been making deliveries to the plant despite their sympathy with the strikers, Thursday morning took their milk to Antioch, Ill., just across the state line, where they are being paid the new price of $2.85, instead of the $2.50 which the Chicago dealers offer.

MILK Poured OUT

Chicago — (AP) — Striking dairy farmers Wednesday were blamed for the first outbreaks of violence in the Chicago milk situation, several north shore dairymen reporting their truckloads of milk were waylaid and destroyed enroute to receiving stations.

The receiving plant of one large Chicago milk distributor, located near Waukegan, reported to authorities that striking farmers picketed their plant Thursday and prevented the delivery of all milk. This plant ordinarily receives 14,000 pounds daily, but received none Thursday.

Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle said he was informed that the pickets met the farmers as they arrived with their truck loads of milk and ordered them to turn back. If they failed to do so, the trucks were boarded and the milk was poured out.

Virtually no milk was received from the north shore district by the large distributors Thursday, it was said. Other supplies were coming in unmolested from Wisconsin by railroad.

If Chicago has a milk shortage, it will not be until after 1,000,000 pounds of cold storage milk has been exhausted. Dr. Arnold Kegel, city health commissioner, said Thursday.

WISCONSIN LABOR IS FOR CHILDREN'S CODE

Madison — (AP) — The children's code committee will have the support of Wisconsin's organized labor when it presents its six child welfare bills to the legislature. J. J. Handley, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, told the Associated Press Thursday.

"The federation voted to support the proposed legislation of the committee at a recent meeting," Mr. Handley said. "It heartily indorses the principles underlying the measures and has urged its local organizations to give their aid. The executive council, which considered the matter, referred the bills to its legislative committee for consideration of the details."

The proposed bills deal with state aid for dependent children, juvenile dependency, neglect and delinquency, illegitimacy, adoption, child caring and placing institutions, boarding homes and the establishment of social service organizations in the various counties to aid the courts and the state agencies.

BRITISH MONARCH IS PROGRESSING SLOWLY

London — (AP) — King George's physicians Thursday issued this bulletin:

"The king has had a good night and progress, though slow, is satisfactory. The next bulletin will be issued Friday evening. Signed—His most faithful servants."

City Rejects Refund For Wisconsin-Ave Pavement

BILL ADOPTED TWO WEEKS AGO IS THROWN OUT

Council Decides Property Owners Must Pay for 14 Feet of Pavement

Eloquent appeals by Alderman Philip Vogt to the aldermen in his argument prior to the vote of a motion to reconsider action taken at their last meeting when they granted residents on Wisconsin-ave a refund of the cost of two feet of the pavement on that street, failed to convince a majority of the aldermen and the reconsideration motion was adopted by a vote of 6 to 5.

It means that residents on Wisconsin-ave will pay for 14 feet of the pavement laid during the past year. It means the additional cost to the property owners will be approximately $3,000.

Alderman George T. Richard, who introduced the motion to reconsider said he had been approached by property owners on Pierce-ave, Summit and Madison-aves, who said if residents of Wisconsin-ave are to pay for only 12 feet of pavement, they also would petition for rebates.

"I am deeply grieved to think that after we had settled this matter which has been a source of trouble for many months that it should be brought back for reconsideration," Alderman Vogt protested. "Property owners on Cherry and Richmond-aves, which will carry the same heavy traffic as Wisconsin-ave will bear, paid for 12 feet of pavement.

"You must remember, gentlemen, that Wisconsin-ave will carry heavy traffic that is prevented from passing over streets like Richmond, Summit and Pierce-ave by ordinance. Therefore the people living on these streets will get more good from their pavement than will residents of Wisconsin-ave. The pavement on this street was made wider because a state trunk highway will be routed over it. It is not right that these people should be penalized to pave a street that the entire public will be using. I feel that it is jealousy on the part of these other people who bear to see anyone else get anything."

Alderman John Diderich pointed out that the city as a whole must be considered. He said any action must be fair to property holders everywhere. To set a precedent on Wisconsin-ave refunding funds after the work was done would be dangerous.

"We must not discriminate in favor of the residents of Wisconsin-ave," Alderman Diderich said. "When the street was paved the city appropriated $20,000 from the general fund to pay a part of the cost and the residents on that street must be a limit to the amount of funds taken from the general fund for paving purposes. We must set the amount of pavement to be paid for by taxpayers at 12 or 14 feet and then leave it there."

Alderman Vander Heyden thought that it was foolish to spend valuable time squabbling over a small sum like $3,000. He said he felt the people on Wisconsin-ave were entitled to the refund and that to grant it would not break the city.

Madison—(P)—Governor Walter J. Kohler is expected to announce his new military staff within a few days. He has said that he will name on this group only persons of military experience, with the exception of W. L. Smith, his secretary, who will be a Colonel in line with previous practice.

Madison—(P)—Governor Kohler enjoyed horse-back riding with the thermometer registering 16 below last Sunday, he said later in the week. He was at his home in Kohler over the week-end.

Madison—(P)—Sen. H. E. Bolt, Sheboygan, will provide all legislators with $250 a session with which to rent private offices outside the capitol, these, he says, being conducive to concentration on law matters. The appropriation would have to be for a total of $33,250.

Madison—(P)—Theodore Dammann, secretary of state, has joined Milton A. Freedy, insurance commissioner in the matter of having one "bum" leg. Mr. Dammann appears at work this week with a cane. Mr. Freedy has been ill at his home for some time with a blood ailment that caused him loss of the use of one member temporarily.

Madison—(P)—Newspaper men in the state capitol have been invited to a skating party near the home of Walter J. Kohler, on Lake Mendota. The executive mansion's back yard runs down to the lake shore.

Madison—(P)—Mrs. John W. Eber, who watched her husband waste session, was in the galleries early this session, when he was defeated for reelection to the speakership. She accompanied him from the chamber after the roll calls were taken that brought about his defeat.

Madison—(P)—The chief feminine attraction of each session during business hours is the telephone operator who manages local and long distance telephones installed especially for the legislators in the post office between the two houses. Legislators often stop on their way between the two houses to chat with her. This year Mrs. E. Baldwin, telephone company employee holds the desk.

DOCTOR ACCUSED OF SLAYING WIFE RELIES ON CURSE

Accused Man to Base Defense on Mysteries of Six Murders in Family

Olathe, Kas.—A mysterious curse that brought death to six members of one family in the course of a third of a century is cited by Dr. S. C. Netherton, retired Olathe physician, as the real reason for the murder of his wife nearly two years ago.

And on this strange explanation, unsatisfactory as the courts thus far have found it, Dr. Netherton bases his hope of being freed from serving the rest of his life in prison.

He was convicted some months ago of the murder of his wife, and is now waiting for the Kansas supreme court to pass on his appeal. His appeal is based on his denial of guilt and his suggestion that the weird, unexplained curse that, he says, hung over his wife's family was responsible for her death.

Now he says he fears for the life of his 9-year-old daughter, Dorothy.

"I'm afraid she is the next on the murderers' list," he says. "If I go to prison, as will be left out the body of those who appear bent on wiping out my wife's family."

A graduate of Johns Hopkins University and a world traveler, Dr. Netherton retired and settled on a suburban farm here with his wife a decade ago. Mrs. Netherton was well-to-do; she possessed property worth $100,000, but none of the neighbors ever suspected it. The Nethertons lived frugally. The only money they ever spent for anything except actual necessities went to buy dresses and toys for little Dorothy.

In February, 1927, Mrs. Netherton was found, shot to death, in the basement of their home. The bullet had come from behind. Circumstantial evidence pointed to Dr. Netherton, and he was arrested and brought to trial. He insisted he had been in town at the time of the murder, but was unable to prove it. His attorneys tried to bring into court the tale of the previous murders in Mrs. Netherton's family, but the judge would not admit the evidence. Dr. Netherton was convicted.

Dr. Netherton admits that he is unable to explain the strange chain of killings. He firmly believes that some person or persons have followed his wife's family for years, trying to wipe it out of existence, but why this is done he has no idea. At any rate, here is his list of the crimes:

In 1882 Dode Strahl, a trapper, and a nephew of Mrs. Netherton's mother, was shot to death near Deadwood, S. D.

A few years later, Roll Strahl, Dode's brother, was found shot to death in a farm wagon at Exira, Iowa.

The same year, Colbert Strahl, father of the two slain men, was shot to death while riding on his horse from the town of Exira to his farm.

In 1916 Arthur Strahl, a first cousin of Mrs. Netherton, was shot to death in Chicago.

Four years later Paxton Muir, a second cousin of Mrs. Netherton, was found murdered in a Los Angeles hotel.

No arrests were ever made in any of these murders. It is upon this story that Dr. Netherton depends to save him from serving the life sentence to which he has been sentenced.

GAVEL BANGS AS LAWMAKERS ARE CALLED TO ORDER

Madison—(P)—Legislators in the assembly and the senate received their first disciplinary rebukes from their presiding officers as their sessions opened this week.

Emphasizing his words with a tremendous bang of the gavel, Lieut. Gov. Henry A. Huber, president of the Senate, warned senators they must not wander away from their seats during roll calls. Several, who strolled back to the room from corridors, had requested the chair to explain the question upon which the roll was being taken.

"I will enforce the rule requiring roll calls even if I have to ask aid from the sergeant at arms," Gov. Huber declared.

Speaker Perry, of the Assembly, also banged the gavel when, at the close of the session of the lower house but before he had formally announced the adjournment, sergeant-at-arms Mouton started to pass cigars as a "thank-you" to members who had elected him. Speaker Perry said:

"The gentlemen will refrain from refreshments until the house has finished their business."

"The Gentlemen" however, got their smokes in a few minutes, Mr. Speaker included.

ENGINEER TO RULE ON RIVER CHANNEL

U. S. Official Will Report on Nine Foot Channel in Mississippi

St. Paul, Minn.—(P)—The plea of northwest shippers for a nine foot channel in the upper Mississippi river to aid barge line transportation, Thursday was in the hands of Major C. L. Hall, United States engineer.

Major Hall conducted a one-day hearing here Wednesday at which the shippers protested the engineer's report that the present six foot channel was sufficient to care for barge line needs. Major Hall's answer will be filed later at Washington.

River traffic men from cities along the Mississippi presented briefs and arguments at Wednesday's gathering. Towns represented included Minneapolis, St. Paul and Winona, Minn.; La Crosse, Wis.; Dubuque and Davenport, Iowa; Chicago, Moine and Rock Island, Ill.; and St. Louis and New Orleans.

Barges operating in a six foot channel between here and St. Louis operate at a loss, while those using a nine foot waterway below St. Louis are making a profit, according to a report submitted by Robert L. Randolph, Chicago, consulting engineer for the Mississippi River Valley association.

Twin Cities shippers predicted that 450 barges would be in use between Minneapolis and St. Paul and the Gulf of Mexico if a nine foot channel were available all the way.

WORK ON COLLEGE MUSEUM IS HELD UP

Delay Is Experienced in Receiving New Exhibit Cases at Lawrence

Delay in the shipment of new exhibit cases has held up the work of rearranging the Lawrence museum, which is under the direction of Harold C. Wilson, recently appointed assistant curator of the museum and assistant to Professor R. M. Bagg in the Geology department of the college.

At the present time work is being done on the mineral exhibits and rock displays. Articles bearing on American history are being moved from the old museum in the third floor of Science hall to the new historical museum in the old Phoenix room on the fourth floor of Main hall.

This historical museum will depict the history of Lawrence college and its growth to the present time, beginning with the decade when literary societies ruled the social life of the campus.

The seniors are endeavoring to have all debts paid up as well as all borrowed goods returned by the end of the week. The committee in charge of the project consists of Wilbert Teach, chairman, Steve McMahon, Kenneth Browner, Vincent and Volney Burgess and Roy Marston.

APPOINTMENTS TO STATE BOARD AWAIT LAWMAKERS' ACTION

Kohler Wants to Know What Legislature Will Do With Purchasing Agent

Madison—(P)—Because of crowded conditions in the state capitol, James B. Borden, former secretary of the board of public affairs and recently appointed special investigator for the board may be unable to find office space in the board office or the building, but he will be connected directly with his successor, Carman G. Blough, present secretary.

Gov. Kohler said that he would not care to say anything now about who might be appointed to the state budget directors' post should his proposal of such an office to take the place of the board of public affairs be successful in the legislature.

Three men are now engaged in the state financial studies besides the members of the point legislative finance committee. They are Messrs. Blough and Borden and Henderson, special employee of the Governor's personal staff, on leave from the Milwaukee Government Research council.

The governor has also let it be known that he does not intend to appoint a new board of public affairs in February, as he might under the law, even if the proposed change to a single director, has not at that time passed the legislature.

He will wait the decision of the Senate and Assembly before substituting board members for those Gov. Zimmerman appointed he said.

Mr. Borden, after his removal by one vote from the secretaryship of the public affairs board last session, served without pay as advisor to the joint finance committee throughout the session from March 1 until adjournment.

His dismissal caused a strike in the finance committee, because Sen. William A. Titus, Fond du Lac, whose vote balanced the scales against Borden, refused to resign as chairman of the committee and members refused to meet with him.

Borden was assistant dean of the state college of agriculture in 1918 and 1919 and from the latter year until 1921 was employed by the state board of education in soldiers bonus work.

He became secretary of the board of public affairs in January 1921. Previous to these experiences, he was superintendent of schools at Marshfield for eight years and assistant superintendent of public instruction from 1905 to 1918 when he became secretary of the state Council of Defense. Born at Milton, Wis., he graduated from the college of that name in 1890 and soon became principal of the Clinton Junction school and then Milton Junction school.

COUNCIL TO STUDY
CITY BUS SERVICEProposal of Power Company
Will Be Discussed by Aldermen Friday

Neenah—The city council will meet Friday evening to discuss bus transportation, possible extension to the tax collection period and improved crossing signals for railroads. The bus business will have to do with the proposed city service which the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company has offered the city, its schedule, routes, etc. Many requests have been made for an extension of tax collection time to March 1, which will be considered. The railway safety signal system, which the Soo line proposes to place along its line crossings throughout the city, has been explained and demonstrated to certain council members who will recommend that the railway company use them instead of the present flagman system.

BUSSES NEED ABOUT 50 MINUTES TO COVER CITY

Neenah—Approximately 50 minutes will be required by a bus leaving the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company office on E. Wisconsin-ave to cover the three loops which have been mapped out by the city and traction officials for the city service which is to go into effect soon. This time allows a certain number of minutes for stops. A test trip was made Thursday morning, the bus covering the entire route in an effort to fix the time for a permanent schedule. Arrangements will be made by the council for transfers from the local to the Appleton and Menasha cars so that Neenah people will have inter-city service as well as city service. The present routes as planned will cover almost every part of the city during the winter months with additional extensions for the summer schedule.

MILITARY COMPANY

Neenah—Lieut. Col. Edgar Saldwell of the adjutant department of the state militia, spent Wednesday here inspecting the equipment of Co. I and Headquarters company at S. A. Cook Armory. His report showed that both companies' effects were in excellent shape.

GUILD SHOWING UP "BIG" PRODUCERS ALONG BROADWAY

"Caprice," Sparkling Offering, Puts New Life into Dullest of Stage Seasons

BY GILBERT SWAN
New York — Although Broadway still suffers from box-office anemia, fresh blood arrives from time to time to keep its pulse beating.

While there's life such as is to be found in "Caprice," there's hope for the old street. "Caprice" is a facile, wise and adult play, made thrice as facile by the performance of our most intelligent pair of actors — Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt.

Instead of sitting about groaning and calling conferences, a number of producers might far better spend their time observing this piece. They might learn something of direction and adaptation and acting so sadly needed in the productions of this season. It might even occur to them at last that there may be nothing the matter with the theater and a great deal the matter with the plays. I have little doubt that had this same piece come walking into the average managerial office, it either would have been tossed out the window or butchered in production.

As it is, the Theater Guild turns it into the lightest, gayest, most to be found in this great land at the present moment. And that romantically married team of Lunt and Fontanne show what can be done with lines that are brittle and sparkling, even when the play stands on fragile legs. It seems to me that no more civilized and comprehending interpretation of a worldly-wise wench has ever been made than that revealed by Miss Fontanne.

The play itself concerns a man of many light and heavy loaves who happens to be in love with the gay and worldly-wise wench. Out of the post suddenly appears one of his conquests, who tells him she has a 16-year-old son, and wants the man-of-the-world to give the boy an education. The boy arrives. He is attractive, poetic and mystical. The father becomes immediately fond of him, but the boy expects the mother to remain aloof. He believes his presence will retie the old knot. He does not understand his father's situation. But the worldly-wise woman does. She sees her fortress threatened—and so, for a time, it is.

The native youth sees in the worldly-wise and beautiful siren the answer to his inarticulate desires. The "Fata Morgana" situation threatens and she flirts with him, largely out of habit. When the relationship of the woman and his father is revealed, he cannot stand to be beneath the same roof. He packs his baggage and departs with his mother. The play is exactly where it was when it started — and only a few months have passed.

Two new theaters have appeared — the Craig and the Ethel Barrymore, both quite elegant and luxurious. The Craig opened with a worthless British piece, "Potiphar's Wife." Miss Barrymore opened her own house with the Spanish translation, "The Kingdom of God," a touching and quite beautiful play wherein Miss Barrymore appears at best advantage.

Also the Shuberts, whose pieces this year have been but so-so, have presented the finest opera I can recall as coming from their show-shop. It is an adaptation of Stanley Weyman's, "The Red Robe," a swash-buckling, he-man, lusty opus. Then, by way of complete report, Walter Hampden has drifted back to his inevitable, "Cyrano de Bergerac," after stubbing his toe on several failures, and hence enjoys new success.

Most Amazing Guarantee Ever Made to Pile Sufferers

Because there are still thousands of men and women needlessly suffering the torture and discomfort of itching, bleeding, burning piles, Peterson of Buffalo asks every druggist to broadcast his remarkable offer.

He says—"Tell every one of your customers that it doesn't make any difference what they have tried before or what lack of success they have gotten from any internal or external remedy for Piles—I want them to give Peterson's Ointment a fair trial. Tell them they make this trial at my expense for if the mighty healing power of my ointment doesn't stop itching and burning and dry up piles quicker and better than they ever hoped for—their money will be returned." Mother Wails of Witches

Babe's Wife Buried In S. Boston--Probe Ended

Boston—(CP)—Babe Ruth saw the face of his dead wife for the first time in the early morning hours Thursday after a hurried trip through cold and deserted streets to the home of her family in South Boston. The body had been brought back to family and friends late Wednesday night after a four days' official inquiry into the circumstances of her tragic death had finally closed.

Ruth prayed at the casket, banked with flowers which he had sent. The greatest of home run hitters was stricken with grief and left on the arms of friends. He said he would return for the funeral services in the house and at the grave Thursday morning.

Miss Joanna Woodford, sister of Mrs. Ruth, collapsed as the casket was brought into the living room. Jacob Rupprecht, owner of the New York Yankees, Miller Huggins, manager of the team, Lou Gehrig, first baseman and Ruth's chief competitor for home run honors, and Herbert Pennock, pitcher of the team, all were represented by floral offerings.

Ruth bought a grave in Calvary cemetery Friday morning there will be a requiem mass at St. Augustine church, South Boston. Ruth arranged to leave for New York after the funeral taking with him nine-year-old Dorothy, daughter of Babe and Mrs. Ruth. Babe went to the Academy of the Assumption at Wellfleet Thursday for the child.

THE KELLOGG TREATY

The senate has ratified the Kellogg treaty renouncing war. When it came to a showdown there was no opposition excepting the solitary vote of Wisconsin's distinguished senator, John J. Blaine. Mr. Blaine by this act doubtless will further enhance his political reputation. The senator might have voted for the treaty had the senate been willing to accept a reservation by him attacking British imperialism. Mr. Blaine is carrying on from the point where William Hale Thompson left off.

The treaty was ratified without reservations, explanations or conditions, and is therefore entirely satisfactory to the administration. It is true that the foreign relations committee in reporting the treaty issued a statement of what it conceived the meaning of the treaty to be, but that statement is of no consequence. It is not even valid as an indication of the senate's understanding of the treaty. It was not made a part of the resolution of ratification, and therefore has nothing to do with it. No senator who voted for the treaty could be considered in any way bound by the foreign relations committee's views. It is so much verbiage and nothing else. As Senator Borah said in reporting the treaty, the statement was made "solely for the purpose of putting on record what your committee understands to be the true interpretation of the treaty and not in any sense for the purpose or with the design of modifying or changing the treaty in any way or effectuating a reservation or reservations to the same."

The whole procedure of the reservationists and obstructionists, from the signing of the round robin to the foreign relations committee's declaration, was the part of schoolboys, particularly the act of the committee in attempting to put into the record "a true interpretation of the treaty." For instance, the committee says it understands that "the treaty does not curtail the right of self-defense, and that each nation is free to determine what constitutes the right of self-defense." A declaration that a warship would have the right to fire its guns in combat would be just as pertinent. The right of self-defense is no more involved in the Kellogg treaty than the right to eat three meals a day. The same is true of the Monroe doctrine and of the further assertion that there is no obligation on the part of any one of the signers to engage in punitive or coercive measures against a violator nation. Each nation will meet such an emergency as it sees fit. No one could possibly say in advance what the action would be, nor could the senate committee's statement control it in the slightest degree. The sensitiveness of a few isolationists and politicians in the senate about our treaty commitments must ultimately become the laughing stock of the world, as it is already of rationally-minded Americans.

The Kellogg treaty not only speaks for itself, but fully explains itself. There could be no more need of a reservation or explanation than one defining the ten commandments. The compelling force and merits of the treaty could not possibly have been better illustrated than by the fact that when it came to a vote it was unanimously passed. We do not count the vote of Mr. Blaine, for such a vote is not entitled to be counted. Furthermore, it does not represent the sentiment of Wisconsin, which is as strong for peace and peaceful measures as any state in the Union.

In spite of all that has been said against it, the Kellogg treaty is a measure of the very highest importance and of the very greatest worth. If we consider that even the proposal of such a treaty would never have been dreamed of before the World war we may get some idea of its significance. It is true that the treaty rests on moral restraint, but the force of moral opinion is today becoming more and more formidable and in time will be greater than that of armament. The whole value of Article Ten in the League of Nations rested on the potency of public opinion. The Kellogg treaty accomplishes the same thing without involved phraseology. It has not abolished war, but it has made it infinitely less probable.

MORAL STANDARDS IN BUSINESS

The attempt of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to force the retirement of Robert W. Stewart as director and chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana is attracting national attention. Mr. Rockefeller disapproves, and to our mind most properly, of Col. Stewart's part in the shady phases of the Continental Trading company deal. This deal had an intimate and direct relation to the oil scandals. It is true that Col. Stewart was twice acquitted in criminal proceedings, once on the charge of perjury and once for contempt of the senate, but the facts in the case are nevertheless clear. Like other participants in the oil scandals, Col. Stewart was fortunate enough to escape punishment in the courts, but the character of the Continental Trading company transaction has been adequately described by the supreme court of the United States, just as have the bribery and conspiracies of Fall, Doherty and Sinclair, none of whom was convicted in the criminal courts.

Mr. Rockefeller believes it is time to apply moral standards to the conduct of big business. He believes that Col. Stewart's relations to the Continental Trading company deal were indefensible and impose an obligation upon the stockholders of the Standard Oil company of Indiana. Also, upon the proposition that Col. Stewart did what he could in the oil scandals to obstruct the administration of justice.

The indications are that Mr. Rockefeller will be beaten and that Col. Stewart will be retained as the active head of the Standard Oil of Indiana. The rest of the directors and officials of the company have lined up in his favor. They have taken what must be obvious to the public, is a hard-boiled view of the indictment of the chairman of their board. They apparently do not care for public opinion or for the "morals" of the situation. Nevertheless, Mr. Rockefeller is performing a public service, both by directing attention to the character of certain officials in Standard Oil and to the broad proposition of maintaining honor and integrity in all business. The Rockefeller family has largely survived public opinion that was hostile to its methods a couple of generations ago. It has done it by a scrupulous regard for business ethics during the last generation, as well as by many public spirited acts. It learned a lesson at great personal cost. It is still further redeeming itself by its stand in the Stewart case.

KING TURNS DICTATOR

Jugo-Slavia has suddenly showed the world something new. King Alexander dissolved the national parliament, suspended the constitution and assumed autocratic power. Europe has become accustomed to dictatorships since the war, but the others have been dictatorships of commoners or soldiers. Here is a king turned dictator. Once that was the usual thing. Kings were autocratic as a matter of course. Now, when an autocrat is more likely to be a glorified editor or stone mason or harness maker, it awakens astonishment.

Suppose King George of England, recovered from his illness, were to kick over the traces and play Cromwell to the British Empire. He would be doing what Alexander has done in Jugo-Slavia, although with no justification.

King Alex has a job on his hands, too. His country, though small, is a medley of nationalities, languages and customs that make unity impossible. Statesmen and legislators have talked and got nothing done, until the hopeful young republic created by the Treaty of Versailles seemed to be dying from parliamentarism. Now freedom is quashed, shrieking feebly. Perhaps there was no other way. And the present generation, which does not hate kings any more because it does not fear them, is as willing to see a king dictating as anybody else. Even royalty, in these democratic times, is given its chance to rise to the top.

POST-TONIC

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

A hardware store clerk reports he waited on a lady customer the other day who wanted three pounds of nails, according to John.

"What kind," asked the clerk, "8-penny, 10-penny, 12-penny or what?"

"My husband didn't say," replied the fair customer, "but he always gets the best so you'd better give me the 12 penny kind."

Two Michigan men riding on a train were both very much intoxicated.

First Gent: "What time is it?"

Second Gent: (after extracting a match box from his pocket with much exertion and gazing at it intently): "Thursday."

First Gent: "My heavens, I've got to get off here."

"Are you going to take your maid with you to the beach this summer?"

"No, indeed. Last year the one I took became engaged to the only desirable man in the place before my daughter had even discovered that he was there."

Ida: "Gladys married a self-made man, didn't she?"

Eva: "Yes, but she was compelled to make extensive alterations."

"Just think, while I was out with some of the fellows the other night, a burglar broke into our house."

"Did he get anything?"

"I'll say he did—my wife thought it was me coming home."

Visitor: "Have you an up-to-date police force?"

Citizen: "You bet. Why the officers have cad-dies to carry their clubs."

Stranger: "So you are the postmaster, storekeeper, justice of the peace, and constable of this town?"

Native: "Yassar! You might say I'm the Mussolini of Brushville."

An experienced wife is one who maintains a cheerful silence until her husband finishes blowing off steam and gets ashamed of himself.

Mabel: "How do you like my new lipstick?"

Jack: "It's all that it's smacked up to be."

A husband and wife were talking about the various cemeteries and churchyards within a certain radius of where they lived, and after a time the husband asked: "And where would you like to be buried when the time comes?"

"On the top of you, dear," was the quick response, and the subject was dropped.

"Give me a sentence using the words detail, defeat, deduct, and defense."

"Defeat of deduct went over defence ahead of detail."

Husband (whispering): "Grace, the soup is terribly weak."

Grace: "S-h! It's done on purpose, so that the guests can see the beautiful ornamentation in the bottom of the dish."

Two men went hunting for the first time and borrowed a few dogs from a farmer. After they had been out for a while they returned.

"What's the matter?" asked the farmer. "Do you want more shot?"

"No," they replied, "we want more dogs."

Librarian: "Something religious?"

Girl: "Er—no—not now. He's convalescent."

A "blind" beggar sat at the entrance of a subway with a tin cup in his hand. A passerby, slightly under the influence of alcohol, took out his pocket flask and started to pour a drink into the man's cup. The beggar opened his eyes suddenly, saw the flask and yelled: "Nix! Nix! None of that stuff! Do you think I want a go blind?"

How to keep the smell of onion from your breath: Peel it carefully, slice with perfect precision, pepper and salt sufficiently and add a little olive oil and a few drops of vinegar and then throw it away.

Harold the Seer denies that he is studying Italian. Furthermore, he says that he has not applied for a job as publicity manager for Mussolini.

WHY HATTERS GO MAD

No matter what your line may be, if you're human you can't please everybody. Don't I know?

A Nebraska reader sends in a clipping which appears to be an advertisement. The item informs us that physicians, athletic instructors and other persons of experience over the country are condemning the craze of going bareheaded. This craze originated in the colleges, the item points out, enough to condemn the fad out of hand—and it is fast declining as "an excuse for either not buying or not taking care of proper headwear."

In the old days whiskers were never attacked by the haberdashers who found themselves stuck with a lot of filthy neckwear. But then, haberdashers are not necessarily mad, or if they ever do get mad they don't get as mad as a hatter.

My opinion of this hatless fad is that it is a healthful one. Not only is it a hygienic habit to go bareheaded at all times when one is reasonably comfortable without a lid, but I believe it is excellent for the hair. If the bare-headed individual blins snow, rain or extreme cold uncomfortable, he still has enough sense to raise an umbrella or put on whatever covering or protecting clothing he prefers.

A newspaper contributor whose writings have wide circulation created considerable concern a year ago by telling the world that the bareheaded fad exposed the brain to the risk of grave injury in the summer time, because, he suggested, ultra-violet rays of sunshine penetrated the skull and worked havoc amongst the nervous system. May be some folk with very little gray matter to speak of took this seriously and resumed their lids. Aside from sunburn, which is indeed an annoying affliction on one's coccy, there is no other objection worthy of consideration when a young man contemplates aggravating the aberration that seems to prevail among hatless.

I tried the thing myself for a season or two, and the first two weeks were the hardest. After that, one loses the self-consciousness that the stares of the hatted world cause in the hatless one. Had I started before the bald spot became a drought, I might have saved not only my hair but a powerful lot of trouble with headgear. But, you see, I am just in the dangerous age—not yet old enough to disregard what people say or think of my conduct, and not quite young enough to affect the college-bravado. So I am more or less under a lid.

The Nebraska correspondent that the hatter's lament might give me a good laugh, and it did. She mentions that she saw bare-headed men at a Thanksgiving football game with an inch of snow on their hair, and they all seemed comfortable. Ah, but what penalty will those men pay twenty, thirty years hence? That's the reserve argument the old fogies fall back upon, when the hygiene of nakedness or the pathology of clothing is discussed.

If I had even a sparse covering of hair, or a becoming tupe for that matter, I'd never again wear a hat unless it were made a felony to go without one.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

ANS—As an experienced father and a doctor with a mild mortality rate I should be glad to advise you how to be a hundred per cent mother if you will repeat your question and send a stamped envelope bearing your address.

Personal Correspondents should bear in mind that this is a personal service. Do not ask for impersonal information or advice but only about your own health, hygiene or complaint. There is an essential psychological factor concerned, and accordingly those correspondents who confine their queries to their own personal health will find this service most satisfactory. When in doubt about giving any information or advice bearing on a morbid subject, I do not say any. On the other hand I am always ready to strain a point or break a rule if I think I can add an iota to anybody's happiness. As to that, however, I am sole judge.

Cataract Mother, 69, developing cataract. Christian science notions, expects eyes to get better by such means. Consented to oculist's examination, but refuses submit to operation. Becoming more and more dependent on those around her for everything, as she is getting almost totally blind.

ANS—The operation may still restore a useful degree of vision. There is no other recourse. Formerly oculists generally advised waiting until the patient was practically blind, before attempting the operation. Nowadays many experienced men operate earlier, as soon as the patient loses useful vision with any kind of glasses.

I have just found out that I have a small rupture. The doctor advised me to use no supporter and said it may have to be operated on if it remains over a year. What will it cost? Do you advise supporters or not?—(C. W.)

ANS—I can give no information about expenses. Your doctor alone can judge whether any artificial support is advisable in your case. If a small rupture is reducible, I believe special exercises, particularly elevating the legs to vertical as one lies on the floor, and rising to sitting posture from supine, while you support the rupture with the hand, may bring about radical cure in some cases.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER
Washington—On Tenth street of the national capital, just a few blocks off Pennsylvania avenue, is to be found one of the most remarkable examples of hero worship known to man.

The example is Capt. O. H. Oldroyd, a Civil war veteran, now well past four-score years, and nearing the end of 69 years of service in collecting mementoes relating to a man he has never seen—Abraham Lincoln.

You will find Captain Oldroyd at almost any hour of the day in the house where the martyred president died, just across the street from Ford's theater.

BIG COLLECTION
The Oldroyd Lincoln Memorial Collection affords perhaps the most intimate touch with the last hours of the great Lincoln.

The collection includes more than 1,000 volumes relating to Lincoln, and numerous other mementoes.

A rail, hewn by Lincoln, hangs in a prominent place. The spur worn by John Wilkes Booth on the night of the assassination, and the flag torn by that spur, are there with countless other treasures.

Captain Oldroyd started his work in 1860.

When a boy of nineteen, he operated a news stand in the back of his father's store in Mt. Vernon, Ohio. One day there came to him in his package of papers a Wigwam edition of "The Life, Speeches and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln."

He took it home with him. After reading it he determined then and there to save everything concerning Lincoln that came his way.

The task has not been an easy one. Money was scarce and he was forced to resort to every possible means to keep his collection growing. The story of how he acquired the old Lincoln family Bible is typical of his hardships.

BEGAN AT CHICAGO FAIR
In 1893 he attended the world's fair at Chicago. Here he saw the old family Bible. It was taken to the exposition by a Kentuckian, and was exhibited in a tent outside the grounds. He approached the owner and was told it would take $150 to buy it. That was a great deal more money than he had. Still determined, he sped to a telegraph office and wired a friend for a loan. The money came and he proudly bore his prize away.

Fortune rewarded the captain in later years. His collection now is the property of the United States. He was paid $50,000 for it. Previously he had rejected larger sums.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Just a gentle hint to the stage-struck girls and boys—17,000 actors are now pounding the pavements of Broadway looking for work.

Yes, it's a great life—this stage life!

Nothing to do but look for work, and when you get it nothing to do but pray that the show keeps running for more than three weeks. Nothing to do but work 12 hours a day in rehearsal and then finally only to learn in the next morning's paper that your show is headed for sure failure. Then there's nothing to do but trust that you can collect your wages, pay off the landlady and eat somehow or other while going around looking for another job.

What with this reason and what with that, these such as 10,000 legitimate actors whose shoe leather is being worn thin in walking from office to office; there are 5,000 vaudeville actors in the same fix and something like 2,000 "transients," which means chorines and such.

Oh, yes, you'll hear that this is a particularly bad season—and it is. But it is also true that the ranks of the performing business have been increasing from year to year. It is also true that any one of the 17,000 jobless might be you.

And what happens when 17,000 ladies and gentlemen of the entertainment business are plodding Broadway desperately trying to get the price of hash and beans?

Well, hundreds of them swallow thethesian price and go to work in the ribbon and dry goods departments.

Hundreds more turn up the frayed and dirty ends of their cuffs, crush their trousers into a press or wash their waists in the bathtub and face the landlady with a "well, what are you going to do about it?" look in their eyes.

None is more patient than the creator of a "dead broke" actor. I venture to say that thousands of barbers and tailors and restaurateurs and boarding house landladies are "cutting" the bills of thousands of performers.

There's a little world in the theatrical belt that is unlike any other little worlds. It has had years of experience in the other fellow's problems, and it is prepared to share the good times with the bad times. All the business folk know that an actor must, of all persons, put on a good front—even when the front sags in a little at the waistline from lack of food.

Adversity is nothing new to the people of the bright lights world. Each day ends blackly and with each dawn new hope rises. The army goes blithely forth, lying to itself and to everyone else; whistling gaily as it passes the graveyards. The wage agencies see them come day after day, chattering of tomorrow's great plans and of yesterday's promises. The wise ones listen sympathetically—but it's old stuff. Tomorrow they will be back again.

The report of any dim rainbow sends the army racing for a glimpse, and even the smallest bit is snapped up.

I am told that the Actors' Fund, maintained for such emergencies, has been drained almost to the last copper.

And the coldest days of winter are still ahead.

If the stagestruck girls and boys like this picture—well, then, come right along.

TOOTH ILLS COMMON TO EARLY INDIANS

Milwaukee, Wis.—(P)—The argument that eating rough foods keeps teeth in good condition may be proved fallacious.

Skeletons of 200 Indians, all between 600 and 1,000 years old, are under inspection by Alton K. Fisher of the Milwaukee public museum. The bones were excavated to determine if uncooked food gave the natives perfect teeth.

Evidences of numerous diseases of the teeth have caused a refutation of a popular theory. Mr. Fisher has found that Wisconsin Indians suffered from pyorrhea, abscesses, decayed teeth and a variety of infections.

FRANCE MAY CHANGE CLIMATE OF SAHARA

Consider Construction of Interior Salt Lake in Desert Region

Paris —(P)—An American project for the transformation of the climate of north Africa through the building of an interior salt lake in the desert region of Tunis is now officially before the French government and a decision is expected soon.

Mr. Dwight Braman of New York is the promoter of the scheme and Mr. John F. Stevens, who was engineer of the Panama canal, is designing the machinery for the execution of the work.

The idea is to dig a canal from the Mediterranean through a series of chotts, or lakes, that dry up every summer, let in enough salt water to keep them filled all the year round, and to flood an area about 265 miles wide.

The reclamation of 210,000 square miles of land from the desert, with farms for 4,500,000 families, cotton growing along the Mediterranean and forests springing out of the sand dunes, with an almost certain modification of the characteristics of the Arab race, are claimed as the probable results on the enterprise.

What is far more important, it is claimed that the improved conditions of life in the French and Italian colonies will so relieve the tension over colonial rivalries as to put an end to friction and war between European countries.

Andre Tardieu, minister of public works, has the matter in hand for the government and Mr. Braman is here awaiting the decision.

NEW FASHIONS

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BEAUTY HINTS

THE NEW Saint Sinner

By Anne Austin
© 1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

Chief of Detectives Maguire listened, with many cut interruptions but no apparent surprise, to the story which Bob Hathaway had to tell of his cousin Crystal's disappearance.

The page torn from the Monday edition of "The Morning Star" was handed to the detective.

"Hm! Pretty damned clever!" he approved, as his eye quickly took in the ringed words, joined by lines, to indicate their sequence. "Guess this squib on 'Fall Clean-up Weeks' gave them the hunch about the garbage can. Never saw a neater ransom letter. Now, where's the envelope? Yeah, pretty clever. I'll bet there isn't a fingerprint on the whole outfit, but I'll take it to headquarters. Letter postmarked Benish—that's a little town about seventy-five miles from here—October 1, 9 p. m. Gives us something to go on anyway. Anything else? What's this the chief of police tells me about a young Mexican farmhand you were having traced last night?"

Faith and Bob flushed, but Bob answered truthfully and fully: "My cousin Crystal had been hinting to my wife and her chum, Tony Tarver, that she was being pressed to marry a foreign artist, boarding in the country near here. They gathered he lived near my brother-in-law's farm—the Nils Jonson place, you know. Miss Tarver and Mr. Ross investigated yesterday and found that Crystal was actually acquainted with and had been seen a number of times with a young Mexican farmhand, Pablo Mendoza. Crystal had said her sweetheart's name was Pablo Valencia. Mendoza disappeared from the Grayson dairy farm, where he worked, something during the night, Sunday night, or early Monday morning. No one knows exactly when, or what his movements were. Of course you can find out. But the Dallas, Texas, police chief wired last night, in answer to our chief's inquiry, that Mendoza was alone on board a train bound for Mexico. He must have left Stanton or some station in the vicinity not later than noon on Monday and Crystal did not disappear until Monday afternoon. As I told you, she came home while my wife and the maid were out and packed a suitcase with about half her clothes."

Maguire nodded. "Might have been planning to join him, leaving on the next train to avert suspicion. You've checked the railroad stations, you say?"

"Bob spread his hands in a hopeless gesture. "We did everything we could think of, except to notify the police and the ransom 'letter' made us afraid to do that. Crystal did not leave Stanton or Darrow by train. That seems pretty certain and Miss Tarver and Mr. Ross questioned the interurban people. The conductors know Crystal. She made a trip to Grayson's and back Monday morning, but no one at last night."

Ears That Are Out Are In Again And The Long Short Bob Is Most Popular

It's "fifty-fifty" for women now, if they would be chic as to their hair. Some of the new bobs, many of which are the long-shorts, show great change. Above, left to right: The Hollywood beauty bob shows the ears and curls the back hair upwards in ringlets. The beauty curl bob is too theatrical for utility but looks nice on young girls. Below, left to right: The temple curl "fifty-fifty" is reminiscent of old spit-curl days. Picked as the best designed to be most popular is the Princess long bob which fastens the ends of the hair with a barrette at the nape of the neck. The new wind-blown bob has an irregular line over the ears which is duplicated by the backline.

We've talked so far saw her after she got off the interurban or before she returned to it for her homeward trip. If she saw Mendoza Monday morning, we don't know about it. I hope to heaven that is the explanation of her disappearance and that the ransom letter is a crooks' scheme to make money out of her elopement. But if so—why didn't they come for the five thousand? God knows I played square with them."

NEXT: Crystal a suicide?

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

WEE Scouty said, "Oh, thank you, ma'am. I'll take the bottle 'cause I am most careful. I'll protect it well, and keep it safe and sound." And then the lady on the duck flew off and shouted, "Well, good luck! I think I'll have to leave you. To the northland I am bound."

The Tinymites watched her start the trip. The duck began to flap and dip, and then it circled round and round, and disappeared from sight. Then Scouty said, "The bottle she was kind enough to hand me is full of funny fluid. Oh, I hope it's all right."

"Now we're supposed to take a drink. Please tell me, do you think that it is safe or shall we toss the bottle in the air? The old duck lady seemed a friend. On her I think we can depend. I'm sure there's nothing in a flask that needs to be tossed."

"I'll tell you what, another cried. (The Times shrunk their engine in the next story.)

a barrette in the back, the long ends are made into two or more Pickford curls.

PRINCESS LONG BOB WINS POPULARITY

The Princess long bob is picked for the most popular bob of the season. This allows a woman to part her hair on either side or the middle, to wave it about her face and prefer, then to draw it back, hold it fast at the neck with a barrette and let the ends fly. One should never let the hair grow longer than three inches below the barrette with this.

Since the wind-blown bob has always been popular with girls with straight hair, a 1929 one appears in the sides more windblown than the bangs. The new feature about this is that the back is no longer shingled but is grown long and the back hairline is cut ragged to conform with the front.

A fifth bob that bids fair to suit many, is called the Temple Curl fifty-fifty. This calls for a new finger wave that are wide, natural looking and easy to put in. Part the hair slightly to one side, bring it down to form little temple curls reminiscent of the spit-curls of the 90's and swing the rest over the ear and draw it down to form a little chignon in the back.

HANDKERCHIEF EDUCATION IS AID TO HEALTH

Does each of your children have a supply of clean, whole, plain handkerchiefs—the kind that is not too fine for use and that has no fancy colors or stitching that will run in the boiling?

Every child should have at least a dozen and a half—enough for him to help himself to a clean one twice a day.

Don't hold up your hands and talk about the washing. Better washing than doctor bills, and if necessary the handkerchiefs can be dried evenly, folded neatly in squares, and used without ironing. They will not be quite so absorbent nor so soothing to sore little noses, but at least they are clean and antiseptic, and that's the big thing in these days of influenza and head colds. As to expense, you can get some good ones for a nickel apiece.

LEARN ABOUT HANKIES!

Handkerchief education is important; more than that, necessary. And yet children go daily from homes where napskin and towel service is given the strictest attention, without a handkerchief in their pockets, or else some flimsy little excuse of one that becomes soiled and wrinkled with one blowing, and stays so.

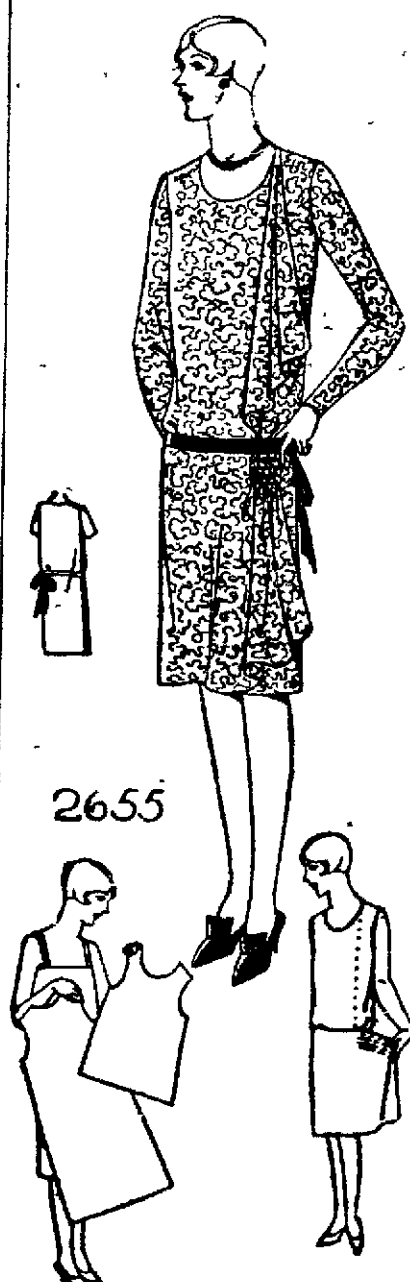

The first thing is to see that each child has a substantial clean handkerchief in his pocket each morning, and if that one has been used, another at noon.

The second thing is to teach him that when he coughs or sneezes he must use his handkerchief to catch or sneeze into.

School rooms are more or less germ-free. New systems of ventilating and the custom of "flushing" the room occasionally with pure outside air, help a great deal, but it would be impossible to keep the air entirely germ free. Every time your child sneezes or coughs into it, he adds to the collection.

With clean handkerchiefs should go clean hands. Make the children wash their hands thoroughly and often, particularly just before meals.

Modern Home And French Furniture Do Not Agree

A room of the French Renaissance.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles written for the Post-Crescent and NEA Service by William H. Wilson, vice-president of the American Furniture Mart, and an acknowledged authority on interior decoration and period furniture.

BY WILLIAM H. WILSON.
REFINEMENT marked the French Renaissance.

From Francis I to Louis XV, 1515 to 1715, we see the social graces increasing in importance, and therefore the evolution from the dignified, stiff furniture of Italy to the lighter, more feminine, delicate and beautiful furniture of France, which characterized the period leading to the reign of Louis XIV.

We can trace the Italian influence through chests, tables and cabinets which became lighter in material and construction, under Francis I. Tapestry became a fine art, and so did wood carving. There was evolution from cabinets to sideboards, sideboards to writing desks, and new articles of furniture appeared, which had not been used earlier.

Craftsmen migrated to France, and began to spin, to work in stone and metal, and to set the stage for Louis XIV's startling period.

The furniture of the French Renaissance is interesting mainly for what it shows—refinement from the heavy to the light, from the cumbersome to the graceful. The pieces themselves were too gaudy, too over-ornate, too unbearably overloaded with "doodads," and dust-catchers.

The period is a transitional one, and as such should be studied. The American home offers little place for the French furniture of this period. The same may be said for Louis XIV's significant period.

While the period is distinctly feminine, and the lavish Louis spent fortunes in backgrounds for court favorites, the period may be adapted only in a few American homes.

CHILD MUST HAVE MILK EVERY DAY

Are your children getting enough milk?

Because, if they are not, in time it will tell on their general health; every tissue in the body composing vital organs, muscles and membranes, teeth, and bones will suffer.

Milk is absolutely necessary to the diet of little children and every sacrifice should be made to get it as long as they are growing.

Even after baby is "off his bottle" he should be given milk to supplement his other food to the amount of one quart a day.

This does not mean that he must drink one quart a day—only part of it. The rest can be put into cooked foods, for cooked milk does not lose its nutritive value.

BETTER NOT TO BOIL MILK

But I shouldn't boil milk any more than necessary in making cocoa or milk soups. Prepare the other part and cook as much as necessary, then add it to the milk that has been brought to a scald only.

Sometimes mothers think that skim milk is useless, and waste it. What a mistake! It is rich in all sorts of things that children need. All it lacks is butter fat, and this can be supplied by butter. For instance if you use skim milk over toast or cereal or crackers, spread a little butter on first. Never waste an ounce of skim milk.

Families that cannot afford whole milk should buy skim milk cheaply and supply the fats in the children's food by butter, butter substitutes, or inexpensive vegetable oils of which there are many wholesome ones on the market; never by fried food, however. Never, never, give a child any fried food.

Milk won't fight with fruit that is not to acid. If a child takes orange juice, it won't hurt him to have milk on his cereal.

WARE OF THIS COMBINATION!

But I wouldn't give a little child milk or cream on strawberries in the summer.

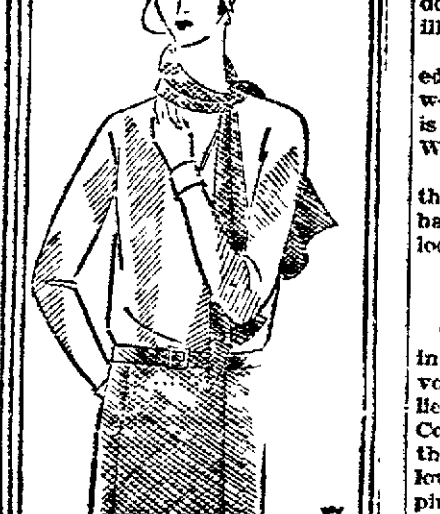

Milk can be served in a cereal or served on it, or both. It can be used in puddings, soups, "gravies," custards, cocoa, or made into simple white sauce and cooked with vegetables. There are dozens of ways of using it.

But be sure to allow a child plain milk to drink, either with his meals, or in between, or at bed time.

It should always be sipped—never gulped, and never served very cold. It should be sweet and clean and kept covered.

I have been asked if condensed milk is all right. Yes, it is, when necessary, also evaporated, or even powdered milk—but make every effort to get fresh milk first, particularly for drinking.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Baked apples with cereal and cream, baked sausages with fried bananas, extra toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Veal timbales, creamed peas, prune and cabbage salad, whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, milk, tea.

DINNER—Casseroles of fish, spinach and mushrooms, fresh fruits in lemon jelly with whipped cream, milk, coffee.

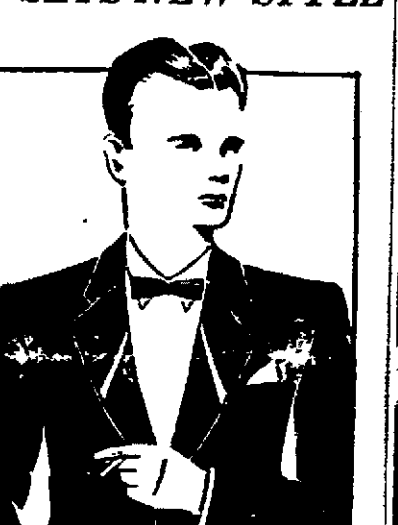

None of the ingredients are cooked in the luncheon salad. Fine prunes are soaked in cold water for 24 hours and stoned. Cabbage is finely shredded and crisped in cold lettuce, drained and used in place of lettuce as nests for the prunes. New carrots are grated, seasoned with salt, paprika and orange juice and heaped in a mound between the prunes. Matchlike pieces of celery are sprinkled over the vegetables and the whole is served with French dressing.

BAKED SAUSAGE WITH FRIED BANANAS

Eight small sausages, 8 fingers of toast, 4 bananas, orange juice, flour. Brisk sausages with a fork and place in an iron spider. Cover and put in a moderate oven. Brown on one side and then turn and brown on the other. It will take about 50 minutes to cook the sausages thoroughly. Place each sausage on toast on a hot platter and surround with fried bananas.

To fry bananas, remove skins and cut in halves lengthwise. Sprinkle each with a few drops of orange juice, roll in flour and fry until a light brown in the sausage fat.

PRINCE OF WALES SETS NEW STYLE

A pointed tab collar... credit it to the Prince of Wales.

New York — A man's evening clothes are more adamant against change than the rest of his wardrobe.

Yet in little ways, evening things do keep tab on styles. Right now an illustration of this is collars.

Newest of the new—and considered by some too collegiate for correct wear—is the pointed tab collar that is the evening result of the Prince of Wales collar vogue.

This is as universally becoming as the tab collars on soft shirts and has a way of giving a graceful, long look to even a fat man's face.

EIGHTY YEAR OLD VET GETS RENO DIVORCE

BY ALLETT SUMNER

An 80-year-old Civil War veteran obtained one of the last Reno divorces of 1928 on the grounds of excessive jealousy. He was married a few hours later to another lady. Rather strangely enough, he found more optimism than anything else in this little human anecdote. It is a symbol of the hope that springs eternal in the human breast, sometimes.

Humans in the main are apt to get too discouraged at the prospect of the oncoming years as times. At 20 one regards 30 as hopelessly old, at 30 one is inclined sometimes to laugh at 20's idea, and sometimes to believe it's viewpoint is right. As one grows older it is increasingly difficult to believe that the best years are not gone or that there is anything ahead.

The spectacle of 80-year-olds daring to cast off the old and be on with the new is good for all of us.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe, or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

160 Women Attend First Friendship Dinner Here

ENTERING around the theme of individual, community and world friendship, Appleton women's first Friendship dinner was held at Castle hall Wednesday evening with Mrs. W. Z. Stuart of Neenah as the principal speaker. About 160 representatives from 22 groups in Appleton were present, and the meeting did much to promote general good fellowship among the club women of the city. The dinner was sponsored by the Appleton Womens club.

Mrs. Stuart, who last summer attended the meeting of the Fiduc council in Europe, told of the remarkable comradeship which was characteristic of this gathering of combatants in the world war. Fiduc is a French term, the initial letters of which stand for world war combatants, and the Fiduc was organized directly after the World War by service men of all the allied nations for the purpose of keeping alive the bonds of friendship. Every year the women in Fiduc report what the different countries are doing for the service men, and what is being done for the war orphans. Children of one country are sent to visit the children of other countries, with the ultimate hope that youth can be educated and trained to think in terms of arbitration rather than in terms of war.

The speaker, in explaining the work of the Fiduc with the young people of the allied nations, offered to donate $250 toward the expense of bringing a Rumanian student to Appleton for one year if the women of Appleton would raise the other $250. Mrs. Stuart has recently returned from California where she succeeded in obtaining scholarships in three universities in California for three Rumanian students.

The speaker told of her trips with the Fiduc to Luxembourg, Bucharest, Geneva and Paris, and described their visit to the Rumanian court where they met the Queen of Rumania and presented little King Michael with a doe skin Indian suit. She pointed out that the Rumanian government looks to the United States for guidance and example, and that the American woman is the ideal of all Rumanian women.

Mrs. Stewart expressed the opinion that total disarmament is impossible, that just as it would be folly to abolish the fire and police department in a community, so would it be wrong to totally disarm all nations.

Throughout her speech Mrs. Stuart built on the friendship theme expressed earlier in the toasts of several Appleton club women. Mrs. L. J. Marshall gave a toast on Friendship, the Tie That Binds Fraternal Organizations, and Mrs. R. N. Clapp spoke on Neighborliness. A toast by Miss Carrie Morgan was entitled "Women's Clubs in 1893, and Miss Mabel Burke spoke on charitable clubs. Mrs. S. C. Rosebush acted as toastmistress.

Several solo selections were presented by Miss Frances Moore, and Miss Helen Mueller sang a group of songs. Mrs. Joseph Koffend, Jr., led community singing.

The reception committee included Mrs. Gustave Keller, Mrs. Frank Hyde, Mrs. Charles Green, and Mrs.

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in obstinate bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Tuesday night's council meeting was mainly taken up with a new ordinance relating to the non-parking of cars on certain streets from midnight until 6 o'clock the next morning. This ordinance, similar to one in Appleton, was found to be a necessity after the recent snow-storm. Street Commissioner Gasse found difficulty in clearing the snow-bound streets. Cars were parked all day and in some cases for days on certain streets. To remedy this City Attorney Butler drafted the ordinance which prohibits the parking of cars on N. Water-st from Shawano-st to Pearl-st; on N. Pearl-st from Waupaca-st to the bridge; on S. Pearl-st, from the bridge to Quincy-st; on Shawano-st from the Green Bay tracks to the Dorset bridge; on Dorset-st, from the bridge to Beacon-ave; on Beacon-ave, from Dorset-st to the Northwest depot; and, on Mill-st, from Beacon-ave to the city limits.

The ordinance states that any cars found during the hours of midnight until the next morning will be removed to some storage place and the costs will have to be paid by the owner. A fine also is attached to the ordinance.

The new city zoning ordinance also came up for discussion. It was thought best to withhold action on this until weather conditions next spring permitted a better survey of New London business and residential districts.

The usual routine of passing of bills was carried through.

COUNCIL STUDIES ORDINANCE FOR LICENSING RADIOS

Would Put City in Business of Running Down Radio Interference

If the common council adopts the proposed city radio ordinance, which was referred to the ordinance committee for publication and public hearing at the council meeting Wednesday night, every radio owner in the city will be forced to pay a yearly permit fee of $1.

In return for this fee the city will attempt to inspect the installation of all radios with the view of eliminating hazardous and dangerous practices. All present radio aerials would be inspected to determine whether they are properly erected. In addition the city would attempt to act as a "trouble-shooter."

The new ordinance, which was drawn by Attorney L. Hugo Keller, is patterned after a model set of radio laws Mr. Keller told the council. It gives the city power to forbid interference. That is, if the city finds the cause of any radio disturbance, it may go to the source and order the responsible person to remedy the trouble. In the case of machines, such as X-ray machines, which cause considerable interference without a filter, the city, under the new ordinance, could forbid the use of these machines between the hours of 6 and 12 o'clock in the evening.

The ordinance committee probably will set a date for a public hearing on the new ordinance in the near future. By a unanimous vote the common council voted to send Alderman Walter Gmelner, chairman of the streets and bridges committee, and L. M. Schindler, city engineer, to the state road school in Madison from Jan. 28 to Feb. 1.

After examining the proposed plat of two blocks between Douglas and Mason and Franklin and Harrison, the council decided to send the matter to the city plan commission for further inspection and a written report.

On recommendation of the streets and bridges committee the council adopted a resolution reducing the cost of street cleaning from 20 to 10 cents per foot. This is charged against the property holder and the balance is taken from the general fund.

Resolutions authorizing installation of water mains and service sewers on Wisconsin-ave from Meade to Lemnawah-sts were passed.

A petition from 131 taxpayers, that the council provide more and better equipment for the park, was referred to the park board.

A complaint and a warning from Mrs. Eva P. Russell, who said the city is dumping garbage on her property next to the S. Superior-st dump, without her permission was referred to the streets and bridges committee for investigation. Mrs. Russell warned the council that it should cause all rubbish, already dumped there, to be removed.

WANT MORE FISH IN RESORT LAND LAKES

Northern Assemblyman Trying to Get Action from State Game Board

Madison — Charges that the state conservation commission is not stocking the 2,000 lakes in his region was made by Charles Lacey, Assemblyman from Iron and Vilas counties, who said that his efforts this session will be almost entirely for conservation legislation that will serve the northern part of the state.

Lacey and Assemblyman L. L. Thayer, Birchwood, intend to work together for the northern conservation interests, he said. The fault in improper protection of northern forests, fur and fish does not lie entirely with the conservation department, he said, because that department has been hampered by lack of funds "but the commission members were named as though a line were drawn directly west from Green Bay to the Mississippi and all of that portion north of it were left out of state."

Mr. Lacey will advocate closing of the deer season completely for a number of years. He will also promote a resolution providing for a joint committee of the Wisconsin legislature to confer with Minnesota and Michigan lawmakers on uniform game laws.

37 GIRLS SELECTED TO FORM GLEE CLUB

Thirty-seven girls survived the final try-outs for the girls' glee club at Wilson Junior high school, which were held recently under the direction of Miss Irene Bidwell. WISCONSIN WEATHER

Probably snow tonight and Friday, except rain tonight turning to snow in extreme south; colder Friday, and in west and north central portion tonight.

GENERAL WEATHER

The pressure is falling rapidly over practically the entire country this morning, with a general change to more moderate temperature except over a portion of the northern plains, and with increasing unsettled conditions in most sections. Rain or snow has fallen over most of the country from the Mississippi eastward and over portions of the plains states and northwest. More snow is probable in this section tonight and Friday, with temperatures near the seasonal normal this afternoon and tonight, but falling again on Friday.

WATERMAN GUEST TEACHER IN CHICAGO

Dean Carl J. Waterman of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music will be a guest instructor at the Master school of the Chicago Musical college, Chicago, this summer. Mr. Waterman taught at the Chicago Musical college last summer also. The session, which lasts for six weeks, will open on June 24.

Owing to the increased enrollment during the summer months the college imports a number of well-known music instructors to assist in the summer work, increasing the faculty to about 100 teachers.

Mr. Lacey favors the 4-cent gasoline tax, for which Governor Kohler found little sympathy in his message to the legislature. Mr. Lacey plans to adhere to the administration proposal for the most part, but considers the 4-cent gas tax as the most reliable way of providing concrete roads for the northern resorts, where tourists trade is falling off, he said.

LeRoy, Rita Happily Wed Despite Hollywood

BY DAN THOMAS
Hollywood, Calif. — Anybody who thinks that a couple can't stay happily married in Hollywood should talk to LeRoy Mason and his wife, Rita, Carewe.

LeRoy and Rita were married about five months ago. But to hear them talk you would think they were just on their way home from the minister's. They are always together—neither having been seen anywhere alone more than once or twice since their marriage.

Our life is simply based on consideration for one another," says Rita. "LeRoy is always doing little things to make me happy and I do the same for him. And we make our wedding anniversary a weekly celebration instead of a yearly one."

Now we have the voice "fadeout"—the latest contribution of the boys who make it a business to figure out a new mechanical device for the movies. By means of this new process it is possible to show a player talking, then slowly dissolved into chant ships of large size upon which guns can be mounted readily and which as the last war proved can do a good deal of damage to commerce by intermittent raids. Also the number of merchant vessels available bears a direct relation to the number of troops that can be transported.

COOLIDGE POSITION

President Coolidge has by no means gone over to the navalist side which has been clamoring for a larger navy all the time but he has taken the position that until there is a definite assurance of limitation the United States should take the necessary precautions and build her navy up to an equality with that of Britain.

The strongest argument that Charles Evans Hughes had when he entered the naval conference of 1921 as the head of the American mission, was that the United States stood ready to scrap more construction than any other nation. To be able to make a big sacrifice and induce Britain to do likewise it is felt that the American navy should more closely approximate the 5-5-3 ratio than it does today. The only promise of a reconciliation of views in the senate appears to be the insertion of a provision similar to that in other naval appropriation bills but perhaps more specific this time that whenever an international agreement is reached the navy department is authorized to stop the building program and conform to the agreement.

Children like it—no opiates. Mothers endorse it—no chloroform. All users recommend it. Mrs. Nelda Weigel, Calvary, Wis., says: "My mother says there is no better medicine for coughs and colds than Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and we find it so."

OLD INFLUENCE OF SPAIN LINGERING IN PERUVIAN CITY

Influence of North America Is Gaining Foothold in Lima, However

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is another story describing conditions in Latin America by Rodney Dutcher, special correspondent for Post-Crescent and N.E.A. Service, who toured Latin America with the Hoover party.

Washington—In Lima, however, more than traces of ancient Spanish rule, but the stamp of North America is being ever more deeply impressed as the diversified infiltration of American capital and American trade continues to increase.

Some of the Hoover party stepped from the centuries-old cathedral, largest in this hemisphere, into a street paved by contractors from the United States and enters a North American-made motor car to be driven to a North American-built hotel or country club.

En route to the country club, with its polo field, swimming pool, golf course and tennis club, its background of Inca ruins and its Swiss servants who speak French, German and English, one passes over splendid American-made boulevards and highways through replicas of our own suburban developments, with their houses made of adobe brick but for sale on the installment plan in the American fashion.

BUILD IN U. S. STYLE

Earthquakes and high prices for cement and steel maintain adobe as Lima's favorite building material, but very lately some seven and eight-story buildings have actually been erected in the heart of the city. One of these is that of W. R. Grace & Company, which would be a magnificent office building in any country.

The Grace activities in Peru illustrate the diversity of American interests which make our influence here so obvious. The Grace steamship lines operate from New York, New Orleans and San Francisco to the South American west coast. The concern carries on a large import-export business in all sorts of commodities, notably machinery. It has sugar plants and cotton mills inland, including the world's second largest textile plant, and controls one of the Lima banks.

Meanwhile the Cerro de Pasco Company, American owned, produces for export some 10,000 tons of copper and lead each month, and the "Ingersoll" Rand Company supplies most of the mining machinery.

You can hear the Two Black Crows on the phonograph in every mountain mining camp. Every steamer brings down a hundred or more Crow records.

In 1920 the Foundation Company of New York made a $50,000,000 improvement program in 30 cities.

including modern water and sewer systems, new pavements and macadamized roads and so on. The Foundation Company also established a cement plant and a refrigerated warehouse, which is the only place in Lima where animals may be legally killed for consumption.

Standard Oil controls 70 per cent of Peruvian oil production. The "Single" Sewing Machine Company, which has a remarkably effective organization in South America, sells to natives all over Peru on three-year payment plans.

Here, as throughout Latin America, Hollywood supplies nearly all the motion pictures. Lima likes them and there are so many movie fans who attend their theater every day that programs have to be changed daily. Society attends the cinema on Saturday and Sunday.

ROSE SINCE THE WAR

The United States has been the dominating economic influence in Peru only since the war. Britain had that position previously. She still has the Peruvian railroads, though it was an American, Henry Meigs, who built the world's highest trolley line, which runs over 67 bridges and through 65 tunnels to a height of 14,645 feet in the Andes.

Today American investment in Peru, between 200 and 250 millions, is more than double the British. More than 40 per cent of Peru's imports come from us, only 16 per cent from Britain and one from Germany. Her exports are more than $100,000,000 a year, and imports around $75,000,000, though export figures are misleading, owing to large imports taken by American investors in Peru.

Peru runs second in world copper production. Her principal crops are cotton and sugar, so she is intensely interested in higher prices for both.

RAILROAD CLAIM MEN TO HAVE MEETING HERE

A meeting of the claim division of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company will be held in the offices of W. B. Basing, agent, Monday afternoon, according to word received here. Other meetings next week will be held at Wausau, Marshfield, Green Bay, Fond du Lac and Oshkosh. Freight movements and claims will be discussed.

These gatherings will take the place of valley freight service committee meetings which were held monthly aboard a Chicago and Northwestern passenger train traveling between Green Bay, Fond du Lac and Marshfield, according to Mr. Basing.

Cotton was cultivated and developed in the Americas in the earliest civilizations known here.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW REVEALS DEMAND OF WOMAN DRIVER

Practically Entire Exhibit Was Devoted to Whims of Feminine Motorist

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service
New York—(AP)—Woman has made her demands so effective in the last year that practically the entire automobile show here is devoted to her whims.

A casual glance over the new 1929 automobile models at the show forces a visitor to realize the influence woman has had on the motor trade.
Style, which includes beauty of line and color, has become the dominant factor—outranking such more masculine demands as performance and economy.

Next to style comes comfort and only after these are satisfied are the performance and economy and safety of the automobile considered.
That isn't to say that these latter functions of motoring are at all neglected. Far from that. Considerable improvement has been made in the performance of the automobile. Power has been increased. The engine has been designed for easier running at the high speeds and for increased economy at all speeds.

Safety has come for more serious consideration, what with more widespread use of non-shatterable glass in some cases extending even to the side windows. The brakes have been improved so that they will operate much more effectively and easily.

EASIER TO OPERATE CARS
It is ease of driving that has been one of the basic motives in the design of the 1929 automobile.

For instance most of the automobiles at the present show feature their improved four-wheel brakes, improved in so far as there is less effort on the part of the driver in coming to a sudden stop. A touch of the foot on the brake pedal, in some cases, is sufficient to stop the car.

Some of the more expensive automobiles have what is termed a "servo-brake" system, by which either a mechanical or vacuum appliance is interposed between the brake pedal and the brakes do all the work of braking. All the driver need do is merely put slight pressure on the pedal. The "servo-brake" does the rest.

What happens is that the pressure on the pedal opens a valve to the engine, in the case of the vacuum system, which in turn operates the brakes by means of suction from the cylinders. In the case of the mechanical servo-brake, the pressure on the pedal starts some gears operating a chain and cable linkage which does the heavy work.

This ease and simplicity of driving is extended to the steering. No longer is there the perspiring effort needed to apply oneself to the wheel for an abrupt or short turn. Steering is made easier by an improved gearing of the apparatus.

Further novelties that are certain to remain permanent fixtures in motoring, because of their good to wo-mankind, are the adjustable front seats, improved transmission for easier and foolproof gear shifting, a device that keeps the car from rolling backward on an incline, improved springs and shock absorbers and a central chassis lubrication system, in two cases automatic.

MORE THOUGHT FOR PASSENGERS

Some of the models at the New York show have adjustable rear seats and backs, for the comfort of the passengers and some have drop center arms for even further convenience when there are only two passengers in back. With a third passenger the arm is turned back to form part of the rear upholstery.

Cadillac and Stutz, with its new brother, Blackhawk, have made use of the "No-Back" device which au-tomatically holds the automobile wherever it may be on an incline.

Cadillac also has what it terms a "synco-mesh" transmission which enables the driver to shift gears quickly and smoothly without fear of clashing or other noises.

Improved springing and the almost unanimous use of shock absorbers as standard equipment make riding easier for driver and passengers. The more extended use of central chassis lubrication, which is automatic on at least two of the models shown, makes it possible for any woman to keep her car well greased without going to the trouble of having it done by mechanics.

STYLE IS FIRST CONSIDERATION
In spite of all these efforts to make motoring as easy for woman as it is for man, they are only secondary to the more appealing factor of style. This year, as the present show reveals, beauty of line and color has far surpassed that of previous years.

Color has been extended to the fenders in many cases, with the abandonment of the austere and conventional black almost altogether. This is especially so in case of the coupes and roadsters, although a few of the larger closed models also show tendencies to break away from the conventional.

Some cars, such as Willys-Knight and Dodge Six, have adopted entirely new body lines. The former has dropped its well marked curves in front, for the simpler lines adopted more generally. The Dodge has become more "Chryslerized," in deference to its new owner, in the way of adopting a thin profile radiator shell, curved cross-roads and other effects that mark Chrysler products.

More of the 1929 automobiles have adopted vertical radiator shutters, sweeping front fenders, individual and lower design, and more graceful horizontal lines along mouldings, windows and other parts of the body that will give the entire car a speedier and more attractive appearance.

FENDERS GET SMALL LIGHTS
One of the innovations that add to the style of the automobile is the adoption of parking lights on the front fenders. Some of these come out of the fenders like graceful sub-

RETAIL DIVISION TO MEET NEXT MONDAY

Reports of special committees recently appointed by the retail division of the chamber of commerce probably will be presented at a meeting of the division at 9 o'clock Monday morning at the chamber offices, according to Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary. Plans for a more active year are being outlined by the division.

LOCAL MAN RETURNS FROM CHICAGO MEET

Nehls Attends International Walther League Conference

Ray, and Nehls of St. Paul Young Peoples society returned Wednesday evening from Chicago where he attended a conference of district presidents of the Walther league, an international organization of Lutheran young people. Mr. Nehls is vice president of the South Wisconsin district. Arthur H. Kahler of the Senior Olive branch Walther league of Mount Olive church, and president of the South Wisconsin district, was unable to attend because of illness.

Forty representatives from 26 districts in the country were present, including two each from California, Texas, Louisiana, New Jersey and New York. Matters pertaining to Walther league work in various districts were discussed. International officers of the league were the principal speakers. A conference of camp directors and deans was held Monday and Tuesday following the presidents conference. Plans for summer camps in northern sections of the country were outlined.

The conference banquet was held at Bismark hotel, Chicago, Saturday evening and 35 district presidents were present. W. H. Weiherman of the international offices in Chicago was the toastmaster. Wisconsin representatives besides Mr.
Nehls were: Walter Roehl of Wausau, representing the north Wisconsin district, and the Rev. F. C.
Broehl, Sheboygan.

SECRETARIES MAY FORM WISCONSIN C. OF C.

Plans for the organization of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce will be considered by chamber representatives at a meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 23, at Milwaukee, according to word received by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the local chamber. The organization plans will be presented by the committee on organization, of which E. A.
Kingsley, Kenosha, is chairman.
Members of the local chamber are invited to attend the meeting.

appearance, and every little convenience the designers could think of has been included in the new models.

So far as the performance of the modern automobile is concerned, little further is to be desired. The manufacturers have succeeded in giving the motorists more powerful motors with higher compression ratios and improved construction, at the cost of last year's cars. In fact, some of the cars have been reduced in price.

Economy this year is the last consideration. The mistress of the household, being considered first in the design and construction of the 1929 automobile, has left that phase of motoring to the man who pays the bills. And the man, as the new models seem to prove, doesn't

"Happiest Girl in Wisconsin"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, undernourished children respond to its gentle influence, how their breath clears up, color comes in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Wisconsin mother, Mrs. E. W. Schmidt, 849 Thirty-sixth St., Milwaukee, says:

"My little daughter, Marcella, became so constipated that I was badly worried. Then a friend told me to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick, and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy, cheerful and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in Wisconsin."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is limited, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

The inside of the cars at the show are just as impressive from the standpoint of beauty and comfort as the outside. The upholstery

APPLETON MAN'S STORY LANDS HIS "FRIEND" IN JAIL

Henry Miller's Complaint
Causes Arrest at Hot Springs, Ark.

Hot Springs, Ark. — Jacques Debouere, of Chicago, has been held to the grand jury by Municipal Judge Lederwood, charged with grand larceny.

The prosecuting witness is Henry Miller, resident of Appleton. Visiting the preliminary hearing in court Debouere became so unruly towards the witnesses that, following several admonitions from Judge Lederwood, he was given a ten-day jail sentence and $50 fine.

Miller arrived here about January 15. He said he was solicited by Jacques Davis, who now appears to be in charge of the Colonial hotel, and went and occupied a room there. He alleges that he drank quite a bit and that Debouere attached himself to him. Debouere claims to have been acting in the capacity of nurse.
Miller did not improve much and latter was forced to go to a local sanitarium where he remained five days after which he left the Colonial and took a room in the Rockfellow hotel, where he was located by local officers at the request of Deputy Sheriff Walter Scherck of Appleton, who was sent to Hot Springs by Mrs. Miller to locate her husband.

After she had received telegrams signed with Miller's name and by Debouere, Mrs. Miller also gave the Appleton official a letter she received, which contained her husband's signature, but which Miller informed officers he knew nothing of and did not request anyone to write for him.

The Wisconsin official said that Miller received not less than $400 from his home since he came here.

Debouere, when arrested, sought to place the blame on two other guests of the Colonial, who, he said, had been slipping whiskey to Miller, but when Miller greeted them at police headquarters he was most friendly and informed officers that they were his friends and had never given him whiskey, and that all the liquor he received he got from Debouere, who also, according to statements made to police, was seen to administer pills to Miller.

Debouere claims to have been a florist in Chicago and has considerable knowledge of flowers and trees.
He denies that he kept Miller either drunk or "doped," as Miller alleges, or that he got any of his money. One of the telegrams he admitted was sent to Mrs. Miller requested money for services to him as nurse in the sanatorium where Miller was taken.
Debouere explained that by stating the young lady in the telegraph office "must have put that in there."

There also is a bill against Miller for his room rent, which he alleges he paid as well as a statement for "extras" and alleged damage to property, which Miller denies.

Davis, who recently figured in a drumming conviction, was arrested on the statement made by Miller and the city placed a charge against him of drumming. His case will be heard in municipal court this morning.

On the way back from Hot Springs Scherck and Mr. Miller narrowly escaped serious injury when the bus in which they were riding in Springfield, Ill., Saturday afternoon clashed with a street car. The collision threw Officer Scherck from his back seat where he was sitting. Into the side of the bus where he landed on his head. He was attended by a physician. Miller was uninjured.
Several other passengers of the bus and street car received minor injuries.

est manufacturer of foot wear in the ery, supplemented by his own patent-

U. S. INTERESTS
CURBING DRINKING
IN CHILEAN CITY

American Restrictions Appearing in Antofagasta to Help Workingman

Washington—Chile and prohibition are far apart, but in Antofagasta, Chile, northern port of 30, 000 inhabitants, they have one or two wrinkles vaguely suggestive of its operation in some parts of the United States.

Out at Luna Park, the local amusement resort, an ordinance says drinks can't be served after midnight. So, quite in the fashion of a restaurant speakeasy in our own fair land, they serve whisky in cups with a teapot in the center of the table to camou-flag it.

The "Royal Jazz" is what they call the dance palace, probably more out of deference to the 400 or more British inhabitants of Antofagasta, than to the score or two Americans there. Most of the music is unmistakably American.

Forms of prohibition exist around the mines and nitrate fields, theoretical total prohibition at the former, but only theoretical. The poor rate population has been inclined to go in for heavy drinking, resulting in sadly inefficient Monday.

The new government has undertaken oath to improve the lot of the roto and restrict his drinking, being responsible in co-operation with American copper companies for curbing drunkenness at the mines. And, although many consider Chilean wines the best in the world, a law limiting extension of wine-producing lands was passed as long ago as 1922.

Antofagasta, a few hundred miles down Chile's 2700-mile Pacific coast line, is the export and import point for a large radius of nitrate and copper territory.

Almost the first glimpse of her from the sea contains an impression of American sales methods, for on the great cliffs which rise behind her are painted, 15 yards high, letters advertising the leading coffee shop and the most fashionable photographer of the city.

The letters are so indistinguishable after that one dumbbell in the Hoover party thought he saw a graveyard on the hillside.

Within Antofagasta, one observes hexagonal revolving street lights, with illuminated ads for clears, Buick cars, liquor and cigarets.

Later on, however, your correspondent discovered that for all her paved streets, unusually pure water supply and other modern improvements, Antofagasta had no telephone communications with Santiago. There are plenty of local systems and Chile has 35,000 telephone, but telephone wires suffice this isolated Republic for communications.

The aforementioned British and American residents are all engaged in trade. The big American firm is W. E. Grace & Co.
American automobiles and mining and agricultural machinery, which are such a large component part of our export volume to Latin-American countries, predominate among Chilean imports.

Cloth for clothing, though importation of our cotton goods have more than doubled in volume since before the war, still comes mostly from England. So do groceries, leather and many of the small electrical equipment field and France got most of the cosmetic and women's clothing business.

Chile is making rapid progress in producing her own necessities. The Government is developing domestic industries as rapidly as possible.
Chileans have begun to make their own leather, their own woolen clothing and their own canned goods.
They have several thousand factories with a $250,000,000 investment, including numerous power plants which are being used to turn wheels for both factories and farms.

Chile also wants to smelt her own ore. There is a project for a 30 per cent tax on copper ore, which would hit the American companies, and which may or may not be adopted.

The government is now subsidizing a big new steel plant at Corral, using electric power for smelting, for she has no good coke coal.

CLERK IS PREPARING 1928 REPORT ON CASES

Snyder M. Shannon, clerk of courts, Wednesday received a blank from the state board of control to be used in making an annual report for 1928 of the number and type of cases which came under his jurisdiction. The report will be used by the state board in compiling statistics of the number of cases tried in the various courts of the state. Mr. Shannon said he would start preparing his report at once but that several days would be necessary to complete the work.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
ASHTORETH ASHE is spending an exciting evening with HOLLIS HART in a little house on the top of a mountain that towers above a tiny island in the Caribbean Sea. A most romantic spot.

Ashtoreth is a stenographer. Mr. Hart is her employer. Rich beyond her wildest dreams, and handsome. Considerably older than she—a girl can't have everything.

Ashtoreth, who has been ill, is taking a West Indies cruise. She meets Hart quite by accident in Dominica, and proceeds to make the most of it.

Her trip, so far, has been most adventurous. MONA DE MUSSET, a fascinating woman with whom she roomed, died at sea. JACK SMYTHIE, an Englishman made love to her. And all the women aboard snubbed her outrageously.

Ashtoreth caps the climax by purposely missing the boat, and going with Hollis Hart to his little house on the mountain. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVI
They sat on the gallery and watched the bougainvillea climbing in the moonlight. And Hollis brought out his guitar and sang ballads of breaking hearts, and lovely ladies, and summer moons. And one about "a beggar with knots in her voice."

"That's like Mona," said Ashtoreth, "she had knots in her voice." He took her hand and kissed it.

"Now don't talk about Mona," he admonished. "I can't have you feeling badly, you know. . . . Tell me, Ashtoreth—are you happy, my dear?"

"Happy?" she cried. "I'm simply thrilled to death! It's dreadfully exciting to you know—being complimented by a famous person like you."

"I wish you wouldn't talk that way," he objected. "You know I'm fearfully concerned about what people may say."

"Oh, please," she besought, "don't begin your profound and proper lamentations again."

He propped his guitar against the rail and leaned toward her. "Young lady," he warned, "I'm a rove and rogue."

She laughed delightedly. "Oh, I know," she assured him. "I've read just columns and columns about you. And whole sheets in the Sunday supplements. . . . That's why it's such fun."

"Tell me, really," he urged, and his voice was lowered confidentially. "What do you think about me?"

"Well," she said, "I think you're awfully nice and quite handsome, and terribly clever. And you've the nicest combed hair."

She reached and touched it gently. "Now what do you think about me?" she parried.

He lit a cigarette before replying. "I'll be darned if I know," he admitted.

"Do you think I'm nice?" she prodded.

He nodded solemnly. "Awfully nice."

"And pretty?"

"Beautiful," he corrected.

"And clever?"

He laughed.

"Now that's just it," he pronounced.

"Now that's just it," he pronounced.

"Now that's just it," he pronounced.

"Now that's just it," he pronounced.

"Now that's just it," he pronounced.

"Now that's just it," he pronounced.

"You're either awfully clever or you're awfully dumb, my dear. Probably you're clever. Most women are. I think. I'm a very stupid fellow myself."

"Oh, no you're not!" she protested.

"Ask your little friend Sadie," he suggested.

But Ashtoreth did not want to talk about Sadie.

"She's not really my friend," she explained.

"But you lived together," he exclaimed.

That, undoubtedly, required an explanation. And now, thought Ashtoreth, was as good a time as any.

"Well it was like this," she explained. "You see, my father died when I was 16. I was in school at the time. Public school of course, but Mr. Hart might think it was boarding school."

"And poor daddy didn't leave any money to speak of—just a little insurance. He was a newspaper man—the most brilliant person. He wrote editorials, and I guess if he had lived he would have been very famous."

(No need to tell Hart what an adorable failure Daddy was.)

"But mother and I—we didn't realize of course—but we were awfully extravagant and we drove Daddy almost frantic."

(Maybe that sounded like trips to Europe, and fur coats, and foreign cars—how silly it would be to let him know that Maizie's worst extravagances were trashy what-nots for their meagre little flat.)

"He had a nervous breakdown—poor dear. And the doctors said it seemed as if he was simply tired of life. It was easier to die than to get better. So my father just closed his eyes one night. . . . and never opened them again."

Ashtoreth dabbed her own eyes hastily. She had loved her father wholeheartedly and passionately. Instantly more than she had ever loved her dear, foolish mother. There had been a mental companionship between them that she could never approach with Maizie. A spiritual and intellectual intimacy.

In her secret heart Ashtoreth attributed her father's death to her mother's wasteful expenditures. Joe Ashe was, as she had said, a brilliant writer. But he had made the mistake—common among men—of marrying solely because he had found a woman physically attractive.

Eventually, of course, he had realized that Maizie's flesh indeed was willing, but her intellect was weak.

Finally it seemed to his daughter that he had rather died than continue to live with Maizie. To bear with her cheap extravagances. Her trivial chatter. And her inconsequential mind. Joe Ashe loved beautiful things. Maizie had a soul for trash.

And so Joe—weakly, had laid him down—and died. Leaving a tidy little insurance. And a remarkable letter to his daughter.

Ashtoreth swallowed the lump in her throat, and went on.

"After he died," she said, "we simply didn't know what to do. Mother was all broken up. So Sadie's mother—Mrs. Morton—she's a wonderfully goodhearted soul—she insisted upon taking us in. We were so glad to be able to clasp a friendly hand that it didn't make a bit of difference who the Mortons were—or what they were. They're just as common as they can be, Hollis—and poor. And uneducated—and everything. But they were beautifully kind to mother and me. . . . and I'm a perfect little beast to feel superior to Sadie!"

Ashtoreth finished bravely.

"After all," she declared, "Mrs. Morton was mother's friend."

Ashtoreth, unfortunately, had no illusions about her mother. She was furtively ashamed of her. And had come to like about her. Pretending that she was cultured and educated and a fine lady. Now, for the first time, she was about to tell the truth. Not the entire truth. But enough to save her pride, if the great and famous Hollis Hart should ever mean more to her than millionaires usually mean to their stenographers.

Hollis was patting her hand sympathetically and she was encouraged to continue.

"Speaking of my father," she said, "I have read that there are three kinds of inheritance."

"Yes?" Hollis seemed interested.

"It's a long time since I've studied the laws of inheritance. I'm afraid I've forgotten all about them."

"Well, there's 'blended' inheritance," Ashtoreth told him, "where the child bears the marks of composite ancestry. That sounds like a book," she explained, "because I memorized it."

"Prepotent" inheritance, where one parent, or remoter ancestor, is supposed to be most effective in stamping the offspring.

"And 'exclusive' inheritance, where the character of the child is definitely that of one ancestor."

She paused, well pleased with her little bit of erudition.

"And which inheritance," inquired Hollis politely, "is yours?"

"Oh, mine is 'exclusive,'" Ashtoreth declared. "I inherited solely from my father."

"Indeed?" Hollis stroked her hand absently.

"You know I had an idea you were very like your mother. I remember of you telling me how she had named you for the moon goddess of old Egypt, because of her interest in the religions of pagan people. You told me that she was rather a student of antiquities."

Ashtoreth flushed and was glad of the dark because the man beside her could not see the tell-tale color flooding her pale cheeks.

"Well," she admitted, "I don't know that mother is exactly a student. It was really a most unusual thing—the way I happened to be christened. Would you like me to tell you about it?"

He shifted comfortably in the long, tropical chair that held his outstretched legs along its arms.

"I certainly would," he asserted.

"But let me get you a pillow first. I want to be sure you're quite comfortable."

"Oh, but I am," she assured him. . . . She loved his small attentions.

"Then you must let me get some more cigarettes," he said. "I'm never a good listener unless I can smoke."

He went into the drawing-room, and was back in a moment. As he stood reflected in the doorway he struck a match and bent his head to the flame. She reflected—as a hundred thousand women had done before her—that no man is quite so handsome as when his face is half-lighted in the flare of a match. Hollis Hart, considering his age (he must have been all of 60), was an extraordinarily handsome person. Ashtoreth liked, particularly, the gray hair at his temples. It was quite distinctive, she told herself. As, indeed, it was.

"Well," she said "once upon a time a lady had a dream. The lady was my mother. And I was three weeks old, the night she dreamed it."

"I've heard my father tell about it a hundred times. He was sound asleep and mother was lying on her back, with her arm flung across his chest. There was moonlight on her face. And her hair was spread across the pillow like a golden veil."

"Carthage," she said. "When Dido was queen. And Cleopatra. And Dido of Tyre."

"Daddy woke up and laughed. Then bending above her, he drew away, horrified. . . . For mother's eyes were staring—the dreadful, unseeing eyes of the somnambulist. And her voice was strangely pitched and foreign."

"She woke with a dreadful start. And closed her eyes and passed her hand across them."

"Daddy took her in his arms and tried to laugh and comfort her. She seemed so frightened. But she drew away from him and began to talk."

"They were coming across the desert," she said. "Great caravans, like ships in moonlight. Elephants and apes and peacocks. Broaderies, rugs and precious stones. And men marching. . . . marching. . . ."

"Well, naturally, father was scared to death. You see—if you knew mother—you simply couldn't imagine her talking like that—like a book. I mean. Then she began raving about reincarnation. She said she had lived before—in Egypt. And that she had worshiped the sun and the moon. And lived in a temple and danced before strange gods."

"Of course daddy told her it was all a dream—the funniest kind of a nightmare. But mother kept on insisting the strangest things. She said she had been a princess. And the Prince of Tharce wooed her in her marble palace."

"While she was talking like that, I woke up and began to cry. And daddy took me out of my crib and heated my bottle and brought me in to mother."

"And all of a sudden, she said, 'I shall call her Ashtoreth.'"

"Well, father said you could have knocked him over with a feather, because—though he knew a lot about antiquity—he had never imagined that mother knew anything about it."

"Ashtoreth!" he cried. "What for?"

"For the moon," said mother, as calmly as anything.

"Then she took me in her arms, and began to sing. I've forgotten the exact words. I suppose daddy had forgotten them himself. But they went something like this—"

Ashtoreth put her head back, and crooned softly:

"Goddess, Thou gives Love—Crimson cloaked, radiant Love, Passion's Mate, Golden Love—Love—Love without end."

Hollis Hart sat up straight in his long tropical chair.

"Ashtoreth!" he cried. "Stop it, dear! You make my blood run cold!"

O'CONNOR PRESIDENT OF HOSPITAL STAFF

Dr. D. J. O'Connor was elected president of St. Elizabeth hospital staff at the annual meeting at the hospital Tuesday evening. He succeeds Dr. J. S. Reeve as head of the organization. Other officers elected are: Dr. E. H. Brooks vice president; and Dr. J. L. Benton secretary-treasurer. Dr. W. N. Moore served as vice president last year and Dr. G. W. Carlson as secretary-treasurer. Monthly reports were given and a general discussion of the relation of the physician to the hospital, was held.

GOVERNOR AND HIS LADY ARE PATRONS OF "HASH HOUSE"

Kohler Gets "Kick" Out of Early Morning Experience in Restaurant

Madison —(P)—When Gov. Kohler and his wife went home to Kohler last Saturday, they were misinformed about dining car service on the train they took and early one morning found themselves, on the advice of the station agent on one of Madison's all-night stool-and-counter eating houses.

Gov. Kohler said the little lunch-room, across from the Milwaukee road station on the east side, was one of the places where the food is carried back to the kitchen and food is pushed down a more or less slippery counter.

He told of the incident with relish, saying that he and Mrs. Kohler were not recognized by the early-morning group in the little "Eat" house.

Capitols are used for many things—junior promenades, politics, inaugurations, legislatures and skilful. Late one evening this week two boys were using the northwest steps of the state house for a ski slide. The snow cleaners had piled the week's accumulation of snow high on the sides of the steps. It had frozen hard and made an admirable, steep chute.

Last session "Uncle" Sol Levitan, state treasurer, banker and part owner of a theater here provided legislators with passes to the movie-house. Legislators are wondering.

One state senator, his friends claim, pasted a picture of his wife on the back of the identification card that was provided all legislators and was sometimes used as a theater duet. It is said that he induced his wife to "subscribe to the legend below her picture."

"I hereby certify I am the woman with the beaver of this pass."

(Signed)

Tellers of the story swear that the Senator never took advantage of this, that he used it only as a joker to show his friends.

Great sheafs of shoe-strings are being kept in the document rooms of the legislature. They will later bind the largest volumes of bills that grace each member's desk. The bills are each perforated twice on their left edge and loose-leaf black and red folders are provided. Through these one of the shoe strings is inserted and some of the messengers work throughout the early morning in each house binding new bills into the Senatorial and Assembly files. Resolutions and calendars bring the bunch of books on top of each desk to four.

The Assembly's electric voting machine, by which a photostatic copy of the vote is made in a few seconds, whereas it takes fifteen or twenty minutes to call the roll, is now ready for operation. It is operated from a key on a push-button system on the members' desks. They unlock their machine, press one button for an "aye" vote and another for "no" and one of the buttons twice for "dissent." This shows on the outside surface of the board with white lights for approval, red ones for "no" and green ones for dissent, after each name. On the back of the machine, semi-circular plates are turned to show "Y" "N" or "P" after the member's names. By this method and an automatic counter on the clerk's desk the ayes and noes are determined and a permanent record is kept of the vote by members from the "photo-state."

In order that members of the Assembly may keep their possessions safe, Assemblyman Ernest F. Pahl, Milwaukee, wants them to have steel lockers. He brought in a resolution Tuesday which would have the superintendent of public property supply such lockers, with the name of each member inscribed upon his own.

Governor and Mrs. Walter J. Kohler spent Tuesday and Wednesday moving to the executive mansion in Madison. Personal effects were taken from their hotel suite here, and some house-hold furnishings brought from Kohler.

Madison, Wis. Jan. —(P)—Roland Dixon, state prohibition commissioner, is angry over the weather. "We have all kinds of investigating and raiding to do, and can get no where. Roads are completely blocked especially in rural sections where stills may be found, and our agents who have to testify in court cases are finding it difficult to get to court sessions."

A course in the history of living religions is included in the curriculum of Topeka, Kansas, Senior High school.

Conquers Tough Hang On Coughs

In Double Quick Time

It takes more than ordinary sweet, syrupy cough mixtures to stop a stubborn cough that persists in hanging on.

For slight ordinary coughs almost any decent cough syrup will do, but if you have one of those tough ones that won't yield to common remedies and often keeps you awake at night then your one best bet is Broncholine Emulsion.

Often one half bottle forces the most stubborn cough to yield and you are better almost before you know it.

There is no sugar, chloroform or dope in Broncholine Emulsion; it's a wonderful medicine for people who are getting over a heavy cold, or an attack of flu.

A New York nurse just couldn't stop coughing even after consulting specialists yet one half bottle of Broncholine Emulsion did stop it—completely.

Ask Schlitz Bros. 3 Stores Appleton and Menasha for your good dealer for a bottle of one of our four doses will stop an ordinary cough.

ASKS FOR IDEAS ON COUNTY COMMENCEMENT

Evidences of the approach of summer and graduation are given in a circular letter issued this week by A. G. Meeting, county superintendent of schools, to rural school teachers in which he asks teachers to submit their ideas for a county commencement exercise. Last year the entire graduating class of all county rural school, including parents and friends, were taken to Madison on a special train and the commencement exercises were held in the state capitol. A total of 1,146 people made the trip. Mr. Meeting asks the teachers to send him some suggestion by March 10, so that plans again can be made for making the trip this year if the parents and students are in favor. The trip will be limited to 1,200 persons.

BORDEN NAMED SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR OF BOARD

Madison —(P)—James B. Borden, Madison, former secretary of the board of public affairs, who was named as special investigator for the board late Tuesday, will work out of the office of Carmen J. Blough, present secretary, the latter said Wednesday.

Mr. Blough said the appointment of a special investigator was "nothing out of the ordinary" as several had worked with the secretary previously.

Mr. Borden was the center of a strike on the part of members of the legislative joint finance committee last session. He was removed from secretaryship and Mr. Blough was selected in his place by the Zimmerman-appointed board. Senator William A. Titus of Fond du Lac, who did not run for reelection, chairman of the board at the time, cast the vote which decided the question of substitution. He refused to resign the committee chairmanship when legislators demanded Borden's reinstatement and the finance committee refused to meet with him.

Gov. Walter J. Kohler said Wednesday in view of his proposals for substitution of other state financial agencies, he desires to be informed fully on all budget and finance problems and hence wished cooperation of the former secretary, who was claimed by the legislators to be exceptionally well-informed on these matters.

STUDENTS ASK CHAMBER FOR CITY INFORMATION

Approximately a half dozen letters asking for information about Appleton are received weekly by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, from grade and high school students in nearby cities. The requests are usually made by students in geography, civics or English courses. The information desired is always forwarded, either in the form of letters or pamphlets on the city, Mr. Corbett reports.

Bank Clerk Finds Two Wives Costly Venture

Ordinarily, it's pretty hard for a man to support one wife, but when Larry J. Lawrence (above), loan company teller, tried to support two he went to jail on a charge of embezzling $25,000. At the right is Mrs. Helen Lawrence, his first wife. At the left is his second, Mrs. Vivian Albanese Lawrence.

Cleveland, O.—Lawrence J. Lawrence earned $1,680 a year as teller in a savings and loan company. But he had two wives, and all three of them had expensive tastes.

So Lawrence, today, is lodged in the county jail here awaiting grand jury action on a charge that he embezzled nearly $15,000 from his employer. In addition, he may be held as a bigamist.

First—in November of 1927—Lawrence married Mrs. Helen Lawrence. He established a home for her and began buying her expensive presents.

Then, a year later, he married Mrs. Vivian Albanese of Buffalo. He made a down payment of $250 on a $19,000 house and established her in it, with $2,000 worth of furniture.

To each wife he represented himself as a bootlegger, to account both for his periodical absences and for the big sums of money he had at his disposal. When Christmas came he showered expensive presents on them, saying that the "holiday liquor rush" was making him rich.

But just after the holidays the shortage was discovered and Lawrence was arrested. He is said to have admitted his guilt.

After he was put in jail, both wives came to see him, separately. They they not meet at the jail.

He kissed each one goodbye, and said: "Don't come back, dear. I'm in a lot of trouble and there's no use bothering with me until I get out of jail."

And they went away, each promising to wait for him.

BILL WOULD GIVE LAWMAKERS VETO OVER KESHENA DAM

Wants State to Determine if Water Can Be Backed into Reservation

Madison —(P)—Growing out of the contest with the federal government over installation of a dam in the Keshena Indian reservation, Assemblyman C. A. Budlong has introduced a bill in the Assembly prohibiting the building of a dam in or where the backwater will enter an Indian reservation without the permission of the legislature. The only restriction at present is that a railroad commission permit must be obtained.

The controversy arose over a federal permit for a dam survey on the reservation, the state contending that it had power of regulating its dam sites although they might be in federal Indian reservations.

Assemblyman Nelson presented a measure Tuesday calling on the state chief engineer to act with the representatives of Minnesota in staking out new boundary posts between the two states in Burnett and Douglas counties.

Assemblyman Caron would have all counties designate one or more county depository banks. The present local demand is that counties over 200,000 in population designate two or more and others may designate one or more.

Assemblyman Hitt presented a bill changing to county assessors from the treasurers the duty of issuing dog licenses, claiming that this measure, with changes in dates, would save about $50,000 per year. Another bill by the same legislator would give all county clerks legislative journals.

Assemblyman Keshena presented a measure which would compel railroads to maintain gates or flagmen at all double track main line crossings with state or county highways.

Assemblyman Eber presented a joint resolution for a committee of two Senators and three Assemblymen to revise and suggest the repeal of obsolete laws. It would be required to report within thirty days after its appointment.

Assemblyman C. E. Hanson suggested a measure allowing town supervisors to remove "dead" telephone lines without notice as soon as they are no longer in service.

Hitt also presented a resolution keeping lobbyists out of railroads and halls adjoining the Assembly.

Two bills presented by Assemblyman Cord would prevent increases in salaries of aldermen without a referendum; increase the exemption to $15,000 for men, the same as for women on payment of inheritance taxes where husband or wife leave joint property and allowing certification from one court to another of proof of heirs.

Assemblyman Caron presented a bill providing for redemption of property within two years after tax sale, instead of within three years as now provided.

CHAMBER IS SEEKING DATA ON INDUSTRIES

Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, is writing to Appleton industries to secure information requested by the United States Department of Commerce. The letters will be mailed in a few days. Information concerning the number of men and women employed at each plant, and the total payroll, will be sought, and will be forwarded to the commerce department.

JUST RECEIVED—A NEW SHIPMENT OF BUTTERFLY SKIRTS

"Lucky is a marvelous pal—the toasted flavor overcomes a craving for foods which add weight."

George M. Cohan, America's Stage Favorite

NO longer need a trim, slender figure be your envy. NO longer need you face the rigid requirements of harsh dieting methods. Overweight is banished when you banish fattening sweets and eating between meals and light a Lucky. "Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet."

20,679 physicians have confirmed the fact that Lucky Strike is less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes. These professional men realize the value of toasting, the secret process that eliminates impurities and irritants. Lucky Strike is a delightful blend of the world's finest tobaccos. And toasting develops a flavor which is a delightful alternative for fattening sweets.

Many prominent athletes testify that Luckies steady their nerves and do not harm their physical condition. Men have long known this and practiced it successfully. These are the men who watch their health, who keep trim and fit, realizing the dangers of overweight. And now, women may enjoy a companionable smoke with their husbands and brothers—at the same time slenderizing in a sensible manner. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

"It's toasted"

Milwaukee Releases Three Players To Nashville Club

BRIEF, SANDERS AND ADAMS SOLD "DOWN THE RIVER"

Reports Are That Bunny May Become Manager of Southerners Next Season

Milwaukee.—The inevitable slide to the smaller leagues and baseball oblivion began Wednesday for Bunny Brief, Roy Sanders and Spencer Adams. These three veterans of the diamond were released to the Nashville club of the Southern league.

There was nothing surprising in the cases of Brief and Sanders, both having passed the peak of their effectiveness in this class of ball, but the release of Adams was generally expected that Sparky would get another whirl at second base.

The passing of Brief is noted with regret. Not only from the standpoint of Milwaukee fans, but the Milwaukee club at large, the Traverse City, Mich., slugger, was the most deceptively popular player the American association has ever had.

BAMBINI OF MINORS
He was the Babe Ruth of the minors for many years, and the people of Columbus, Louisville, St. Paul, Kansas City and the other cities of the league regarded him as the "kick" of seeing Bunny stride up to the plate as their big brothers in the majors had in watching the Bambino.

Bunny could have been very useful in utility roles and coach here, but it is believed that Patsy Rowland, recently appointed manager of Nashville and former president of the Home Brews, expects to turn over the managerial toga to him at the end of the coming season. That will be a good spot for Dr. Bunions, for at least this year he should get the Class A hurling in that direct soft to compile another neat batting mark. Brief is starting his tenth season.

DISLIKED BULL PEN
With the fine staff of hurling talent lined up for the spring camp and the addition of Rosy Ryan, reliever pitcher de luxe, there was no room for Sanders, who in recent years has shown flashes of the greatness that was rightfully his, but never over a stretch. He did his daily toil in the bull pen here and at Rowland gives him a regular turn on the hill should show the Southern leaguers some of the finest curves they have ever looked at.

GOLFERS COMPLETE WEST COAST MEETS

Now Start Trek to Southwest for Round of Tournaments

Pasadena, Cal.—(AP)—Prize-seeking golfers who have followed the old trail over far western fairways from Portland to Honolulu and back to lower California since early December, are now heading westward, where two Texas tournaments offer reward for low scorers.

The jump across the continent will be broken for the El Paso open Jan. 19 and 20, and again at San Antonio where $5,000 in cash awaits winners of the Texas open Jan. 24 and 25. The South Central open at Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 31 to Feb. 1 will carry the players eastward.

NAME WILLAMAN AS OHIO STATE COACH

Has Been Assistant Director of Football for Two Years

Columbus, O.—Sam S. Willaman, since 1925 assistant director of football at Ohio State university, Wednesday was selected to succeed Dr. W. W. Wiley, as football coach by the athletic board of the university.

Immediately after his appointment Willaman said he would seek the services of George Houser as line coach and Don Miller to direct the backfield. Houser is a former Minnesota tackle, now living in Minnesota and coaching at Colgate during the football season.

Miller, famous as one of the "Four Horsemen" at Notre Dame, is a former backfield coach at Georgia Tech in Atlanta since graduating from Notre Dame in 1925, assisting Coach Bill Alexander in the development of the team which went through the 1928 season undefeated, defeating California in the tournament of roses and winning national recognition.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
DEMPSEY is making up with all his estranged friends. . . He shook the hands of Jimmy Dougherty and Senator Will Bill Lyons and called it quits. . . Kearns may be next. . . COACH REVAMPS BADGER ATTACK FOR NEXT GAME

Dr. Meanwell Not So Sure of Wins With Tough Competition

MADISON.—Championship of the Wisconsin basketball five went soaring after the thrilling victory of the Badgers over the Indiana co-champions here Monday night, 24-20. But while the fans were still celebrating the triumph, Dr. Walter E. Meanwell was planning a series of stiff practice sessions this week in preparation for the Minnesota and Purdue battles this weekend.

It is too early in the season to regard a single victory or defeat as a decisive factor in the Western conference race, especially when the Badgers have to contend with foes of the caliber of Minnesota and Purdue within the next few days. The Gophers, who have made determined stands against first division teams since Wisconsin defeated them 20-21 early in the season, will invade the red armory gym Saturday evening.

After the Minnesota game the Badgers must set sail for Lafayette, Ind., where Coach Lambert's Purdue five will be met Monday night. Purdue has defeated Chicago twice and Northwestern and Illinois once in the current Big Ten race.

Dr. Meanwell said today that he would seek to develop a faster offense this week. The total of 24 points scored Monday night was not encouraging to the Little Doctor, especially as the Badger attack was stopped completely for several minutes of the second half, while the Hoosiers scored five successive baskets to take the lead at 16-15.

The lead then alternated until the final two minutes of play, when it became deadlocked at 20. Hank Kowalczyk missed a long attempt, but put Wisconsin ahead when he scored a brilliant one and one follow shot. Capt. Tenhopen put the game on ice with another goal which swished through the net without touching the rim.

The Badgers used their height to good advantage both on taking the ball from the bankboard and under their own basket. It is a difficult task to pick an individual star from the six men that Dr. Meanwell used—Tenhopen, Foster, Chmielewski, Ellerman, Kowalczyk and Miller.

Around The Sport World

LIKED BIG FELLOWS
ALTHOUGH he confessed that of all the fighters he ever had associated with, he thought most of Jim Jeffries and Jack Dempsey, the late Tex Rickard was partial to bigger men than either of the two former heavyweight champions.

He felt that when he had two huge fellows looked that half of the work was done.

He admitted that he thought he had made a mistake after he signed Dempsey to fight Willard. He thought that Dempsey was too small and he was convinced that the crowd for that fight because of a feeling that little Dempsey didn't have a chance against the gigantic Willard.

FELT SORRY FOR JACK
Rickard said several times in later years that he felt sorry for Dempsey as the time approached for the Toledo battle. He had been told and knew of his own knowledge that Willard wasn't training, but he thought that a huge, powerful man such as he was, didn't have to be in first-class condition to beat a little fellow.

It related that on the night before the fight Rickard spent some time with Willard discussing the possibility of an exhibition tour after the fight and the defense of his title again as soon as he could get a good big fellow for him.

CARP GOT A TITLE
He had the same concern about size when he began to consider Carpenter as a prospective opponent.

FIRPO HAD THE SIZE
It was Firpo's size that made such a tremendous hit with Rickard. The general make up of the South American was just what Rickard had pictured as an ideal for promotion as a challenger. When Firpo was first called "the Wild Bull of the Pampa," Rickard chuckled and said: "There couldn't be a better name for him. The people will look for him on the streets now."

PAULINO TOO LAUGHY
Rickard was steamed up about Paulino until he saw him. When I returned from Paris in 1924 Rickard the Australian, beat him in flaccid asked me if I had seen Paulino and I told him that I had seen George Cook, the Australian, beat him in a terrible 20 round bout. Rickard didn't say a word.

"How big is he?" he inquired and I told him that he had weight, but was rather short and chunky.

"That ain't right unless he could fight like Dempsey," he said.

When Paulino came to this country and met Rickard, even before he had fought, Rickard said that he didn't think he would do.

"I was too much to be a wild man," he said.

OPEN NEW FIGHT CLUB
TUESDAY AT MILWAUKEE
Milwaukee.—The Antlers Fight Club, Milwaukee's newest boxing institution, will come into existence Jan. 22, at the Arcadia Ball Room when it stages its first boxing card featuring a double windup eight rounds each, with Shuffie Callahan, Chicago knockout king, boxing Chief Jack Elkhardt, a slacker from Oklahoma who has knocked out Red Uhlman, Warner Smith, Joe Corrado and both Emil Baile and Ted Eastman, who defeated the former Milwaukee favorite Howard Tom.

PAPER COMPANY TEAMS VICTORS IN Y. M. C. A. LOOP

Coated Defeats Co. D, Fox River Wins from Mulford Clothiers

THE Fox River Paper company and the Appleton Coated Paper company were victorious in the Tuesday evening basketball games in the Industrial-Y. M. C. A. tournament played on the association floor. The Fox River cagers defeated the Mulford Clothiers five to three, and the Coated Paper aggregation managed to eke out a win over the soldiers of Company D, 127th Infantry by a score of 23 to 22.

The game between the Coated Paper cagers and the soldiers was fast and furious and was a give and take affair. The winning basket came late in the second half after the soldiers had a one point lead throughout the period. Green starred for the Company and sank five baskets and two free tosses, while Strutz and Rietz shared honors on the Coated Paper squad, each tallying three ringers. The soldiers committed nine. Stevens of the paper five was taken from the game in the first half after he had tallied four personals.

The first game of the program between the Fox River Paper aggregation and the Kaukauna Clothiers could be called a veritable football game. The Mulford cagers were leading at the end of the first half by a score of 14 to 5, but at the beginning of the second half, R. Tornow ran wild and scored 16 points for the Fox River Paper company. The paper men committed 12 fouls and their opponents committed 19. The game was full of spectacular hocking, tripping, clipping and riding. Howie of the Mulford five committed four fouls, the last one being called as the game ended.

R. Tornow starred for the paper cagers, tallying nine baskets and three free throws, while Stevens was high scorer for the clothiers with four ringers. Kilgas of the Kaukauna aggregation sank three baskets and three free throws, and divided honors with Stevens.

ORGANIZE CAGE SQUAD AT ST. MARY SCHOOL

A basketball team, to be known as the "Blue and White," has been organized at St. Mary school. Melvin Van Dyke is captain of the group and Floyd Van Dyke was elected manager. Other members of the squad include Lorenz Mayer, Robert Paimen, Jerry Vilis, Kenneth Kiffe, Victor Nettekoven, Joseph Smith, Joseph Haupt, Bud Kalupa and Patrick McMahon.

The team which will be coached by the Rev. Joseph Schaefer, will practice three times a week in the high school auditorium, and during the season it hopes to meet teams from Little Chute, Kimberly, Appleton, Green Bay, and Kaukauna.

FRANK WALSH FAILS IN PASADENA OPEN

Pasadena, Calif.—(AP)—MacDonald Smith, Great Neck, Long Island, 30,000 Los Angeles open crown, and George Von Elm, a local amateur of N. Y., successful defender of the Detroit, deadlocked Tuesday for low honors in the 18 holes of qualifying play of the $4,000 Pasadena open golf tournament.

The pair rounded the tricky municipal course in 69, two strokes under par.

Frank Walsh, Appleton, failed to qualify. He had 32-42-50.

ST. JOSEPH CAGERS WIN FROM TROOP 4

St. Joseph junior high school basketball team won another game Tuesday evening when it defeated the Troop 4 team of Valley Boy Scouts. The score was 29 and 10. Grieshaber starred for the parochial school team with two baskets and four free throws. Parks of the scout counted the most points for his team, a basket and two free throws.

Major League Clubs To Play 93 Exhibition Games

CHICAGO.—(AP)—The moot question of which of the two major leagues plays the best baseball may be partially settled when the American and National league clubs clash in 93 exhibition games prior to the opening of the championship season April 16.

Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics lead the American league clubs in games scheduled with teams of the senior circuit, meeting the Herdler league teams in 22 games. Seven games will be played with the Philadelphia, two in Florida and five at Philadelphia for the city championship. The A's also encounter the Cincinnati Reds in five games, the Boston Braves in six and the St. Louis Cardinals in four. All will be played in Florida.

Washington has 20 league games scheduled, five with the Cardinals, three each with Brooklyn and Boston, and seven with the New York Giants.

The champion Yankees tangle with the Boston Braves seven times at St. Petersburg, then meet the Cardinals twice and Cincinnati once before heading west to play Pittsburgh once in Texas. There are to play the Dodgers twice at Brooklyn.

Vikings Leave On Iowa Trip Thursday Afternoon

TEN Vikings and their coach and manager will leave Thursday afternoon on the first extended road trip by the Vike cagers this year. The jaunt will take the team into Iowa where it will meet Coe college at Cedar Rapids, Friday evening and Cornell college at Mt. Vernon, Ia., Saturday night.

Coach Denney has changed his battle front a bit during the last ten days. Irving Jackala, who so far hasn't seen much action will be forward along with Hayward Biggers. Jerry Slavic will return to his old position at guard, probably getting the call along with Pierce. Schneller and Laird will alternate at the center positions.

The other four men on the squad probably will be Hoffman and Rasmussen, forwards and Dan Steinberg and Paul Fischl, guards. All the men except Fischl have seen action in recent games.

Besides changing his front, Coach Denney has drilled the men until he is fairly well satisfied they'll look half way like a basketball team in their next encounter. The coach's last report on the team as the result of Wednesday night's drill is that they now are passing better and have learned when and when not to use the various types of attack.

The task of beating the two teams encountered on the road trip will be no easy one. Coe hasn't engaged in enough competition to judge its strength but Cornell has beaten Beloit and the gold is no easy mark.

When the Vikes return to Appleton they will spend four days preparing for that annual battle which packs the fans in the armory—Lawrence versus Carroll. The Pioneers have been racing through their schedule again this year and if the present Lawrence road trip is successful, chances are the Vikes can lower Carroll colors. And the following Monday evening Marquette will come to Appleton for a return game.

OSHKOSH NET TEAMS ENTER TOURNAMENT

Fifteen Valley Teams Expected to Enter Championship Tourney

Five Oshkosh volleyball teams are the first entries in the Fox River Doubles Championship volleyball tournament to be held at Oshkosh, Saturday, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director. Two teams have been entered from the Paine Lumber company and three from the Oshkosh Elks club.

It is expected 15 teams from the Fox river valley will compete in the tournament. The local association is planning to enter two teams, according to Mr. Jensen. Other prospective entries are teams from Fond du Lac, Neenah, Green Bay, Kaukauna and Kimberly.

A dinner will be served to valley players and their wives at the Elks club, Oshkosh, at 6:30 Saturday evening. Plans for the second half of the valley volleyball tournament will be discussed. A tentative schedule probably will be arranged, according to Mr. Jensen. Preliminary games of the championship tourney will be played Saturday afternoon and finals will follow the dinner party in the evening.

OFFER BIG STAKES AT CHICAGO RACES

Chicago.—(AP)—Three $50,000 stakes may be offered at Chicago race tracks during the 1929 season.

Officials of three tracks, Hawthorne, Arlington and Washington Park Thursday, intimated they each would offer that sum in their various blue ribbon events.

Arlington Park, taken over recently by a group of business and civic leaders, is expected to stage its $50,000 stake race the latter part of July; the American Derby, to be run at Washington Park, June 15 and the Hawthorne gold cup are the other events in which purses of $50,000 are anticipated.

The Illinois racing season opens and closes at the Aurora track this year, running from May 1 to October 31.

MARQUETTE HOCKEY TEAM LOSES, 1 TO 0

Milwaukee.—(AP)—In a hard fought game, the Chicago Athletic association hockey team, Western amateur champions last winter, defeated the intercollegiate champion Marquette University six here Wednesday night, 1 to 0. Jack Lynch scored for the visitors unassisted early in the second period. A heavy snowfall handicapped both teams.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Louis Gonzales, Tampa, knocked out Andy Cohen, Newark N. J., (6).

Great Falls, Mont.—Al Rossberg, Great Falls, and Henry Fegano, California, drew (12).

LOTT AGAIN RANKS IN WESTERN TENNIS

With John Hennessey He Also Ranks No. 1 in Doubles Play

Chicago.—(AP)—George Lott of Chicago and John Hennessey of Indianapolis, national doubles champions and members of the United States Davis cup team, were again awarded one, two honors in the 1928 Western Lawn Tennis Association rankings, released late Wednesday.

Lott, who learned his tennis on the municipal courts of Chicago, was ranked No. 1 in men's singles and Hennessey No. 2, the same positions they were rated last year. The pair were also again placed No. 1 in the men's doubles.

Hennessey, Karl Reid of Cleveland, and Paul Kunkel of Cincinnati were the only players to break through the ranks of the Chicago district racket wielders, who captured seven of the first ten places in the singles.

Whereas there was not much change in the men's rankings, there was a big crash in the women's rankings. Marion Leighton of Chicago, who for several years has been the ranking western woman singles player, tumbled to sixth place, first position going to Clara Louise Zinke of Cincinnati. Miss Zinke teamed with Ruth Oexman, also of Cincinnati, to win No. 1 rating in the women's doubles.

In three conference games not one personal foul has been called against Nelson, who is second to Wilcox in individual scoring for the Hawks with 25 points.

Tenhopen, Wisconsin's rangy center, has the most personal fouls—14 in four games.

Studios Preserve Old Household Furnishings

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Antique beds and exotic draperies, chandeliers of strange design, copies of famous statues, and thousands of rare and sometimes valuable objects besides, all have their place in a motion picture studio "property" department.

But there are times when the atmosphere artists of the screen gladly would exchange some of these washub, an old fashioned kerosene lamp, or a coffee-grinder.

That is why studios zealously preserve all such museum pieces, of common household life in the times before modern electrical devices sent them into oblivion.

DAYS OF THE TANDEN

If a scene is to represent an old time country store, as was the case at First National the other day, obviously the shelves cannot be laden with radio parts, television sets, safety razors, electric flashlights and the like. They cry for pieces of contemporary: the mousetache cup, the stereoscope and the tandem bike — and thanks to the foresight of the "prop" experts, the seekers to unwonted scurrying around to meet the needs.

Sometimes tourists from other states discard their "foreign" markers here and there serve often to swell the "prop" resources. Thus tags that rattled westward on wagon wheels may arrive to the dignity of adorning the princely coach of a make-believe heiress, at an "east coast resort" or the empty roadster of a "Princeton collegiate."

FLORIDA'S EVERGLADES ARE YIELDING TO IRRIGATION

ENGINEERS TURN MUCK LAND INTO NEW "SUGAR BOWL"

State Is Turning from Real Estate to Realization of Farm Possibilities

CLLEWISTON, FLA.—A fleet of 75 tractors thundering over the muck lands of Florida's northern Everglades for 24 hours a day, with an obligate of rivet guns pounding on structural steel on a giant sugar mill nearby is the theme of the tune to which Florida is turning from real estate to the realization of its agricultural and industrial possibilities.

Contrasting sharply with conditions of other days in Florida, a shrill factory whistle awakens the town at 6:30 o'clock in the morning while at night the bright lights of the former palatial real estate offices are replaced here by the glare of tractor headlights plodding onward in the preparation of some 12,000 acres of sugar cane production.

This, too, is the picture of the transformation of the northern Everglades from a spectral waste into a new sugar bowl for America, where soil for centuries has been accumulating a rich layer of thick black muck. The richest farm land in the United States is now being changed from a potentiality to an actuality.

100,000 ACRES AFFECTED
Back of this activity which will affect the entire state and less directly the country, is Bror G. Dahlberg of Chicago, president of a sugar company operating over 100,000 acres of land around the southern rim of Lake Okechobee in Florida.

Three years ago, Dahlberg was told by soil experts that the muck lands of the northern Everglades were ideally suited to sugar cane production, if successful drainage were possible.

Okechobee, the largest lake entirely within the borders of the United States, originally covered the greater portion of the South Florida peninsula, and its recession over long periods of time left the rich muck deposits, but at the same time created the drainage problem.

As though unwilling to relinquish its dominance over the control of the peninsula, Lake Okechobee seeped sand over the land periodically in dry seasons, luring agriculturists to its fertile shores, but with the coming of the rainy season greedily asserting its power.

It was this problem which confronted Dahlberg, who called in the best engineering minds of the country to arrive at a solution. Like many other apparently insurmountable obstacles, the remedy was comparatively simple although gigantic.

Blocking off a 43,000-acre tract, a dike 11 miles long was built forming a drainage district. Within this district a series of lateral canals empty into the main canal. At the northern end of the district and a stone's throw from the lake were installed three pumps with a total capacity of 180,000 gallons of water per minute, with two of them made reversible to pump water back into the district when necessary, thus affording not only drainage but absolute water control.

ESCAPED HURRICANE HARM
The effectiveness of this system was forcibly demonstrated during the September, 1928, hurricane, when lands within this district escaped entirely from water damage.

Several thousand acres of seed and test sugar cane were planted, the success of which is seen in yields as high as 50 tons to the acre, with sucrose or sugar content as high as 12 and 14 per cent. Two sugar mills, one at Clewiston and one at Canal Point, will be in operation until June grinding this year's crop.

The experimental stage passed, Dahlberg and his associates are now going forward with an immediate program which calls for an additional sugar mill with a capacity of 3,000 tons per day and 12,000 acres in cane.

MILK PRODUCERS OBEY HEALTH RULES

Requirements of Chicago Board of Health Are Met by Neighboring Farmers

BY W. F. WINSEY
Farmers who are supplying the Outagamie Milk and Produce Company with milk are meeting the requirements of the Chicago board of health. Since the roads were blocked, the stalling of milk trucks on the main roads is causing the company considerable trouble. Farmers living off the main roads have abandoned truck deliveries and are using teams. The amount of milk being delivered is on the increase. While the company has not branched out much the past year, business shows an increase over the previous year. The prospect is good for the same amount of business or an increase this year.

A number of farmers who have built milk houses to meet the requirement of the Chicago board of health would not try to get along without these improvements even if their milk went to cheese or butter factories, to condensers, or to consumers in cities other than Chicago. As a result of the care exercised by 137 farmers who are delivering milk to this company, Dr. E. Booth, representing the Chicago Board of Health, found only two samples that were not up to the required standard by applying the sediment test wholesale a few days ago.

Sugar Company to Raise Cane in Florida

Modern engineering is performing a veritable miracle in transforming the muck lands of Florida's northern Everglades into rich sugar cane producing land. Above are two views showing the modern methods being employed. Inset is Bror G. Dahlberg of Chicago, president of a sugar company sponsoring the project.

Seek Means Of Growing Clover Without Plow

BY W. F. WINSEY

The man who devises and introduces a practical plan of raising sweet clover or some other legume on the hills and in the valleys of Wisconsin without plowing or cultivating the ground, will be a great benefactor to cows and the dairy interests of the state.

A large number of hills and ravines furnish herds with pasture for a month in the spring and occasionally for two months late in the fall but during the summer months they become race courses and starving grounds for cattle with no other pasture.

Last June, the pasture in these waste places was dried up and brown and supplied no feed whatever for the herds on them. Until some time after the drouth was broken the cows kept continually on the move in their enclosures as if trying to find some way into better fields or over the fence.

During this same June drouth, other herds in fields of sweet clover were stuffing themselves in small areas and resting afterwards with nothing but their horns in sight above the luxuriant pasture.

If each farmer who depends on wild pasture for his cattle would sow an emergency measure fence, plow and sow to sweet clover five acres of wild pasture land, he would not only have pasture for his cattle during the next drouth but for the entire summer if he needed it.

As cattle not accustomed to sweet clover pasture do not take to it from choice and have to be starved into trying it at first, the fence about the sweet clover patch is an absolute necessity. The fence also keeps the cattle from wearing out their strength by roaming and preserves their power for milk production.

It is safe to say that eight acres of sweet clover will supply more feed than forty acres of wild pasture and double the milk production total for the summer.

Any farmer may fence off five acres of his wild pasture land, plow it, cultivate it, and sow the field to sweet clover and from the little extra effort required he assured of an emergency or a regular supply of pasture for his herd, but nevertheless the man who invents and introduces a practical method of making clover grow on wild pasture lands without tilling will be a great benefactor to the dairy industry of the state. When this advance is made there will not only be no shortage of pasture in midsummer but each acre will supply pasture for five times as many cattle as it now does.

The annual production of Wisconsin's paper and pulp mills would fill 40,000 box cars. These cars would make a freight train 300 miles long—almost long enough to reach from north to south across the state.

The federation has just completed its fifteenth year of operation, handling the largest volume of product, close to 40,000,000 pounds, in its entire history. In dollars the business in all departments exceeded $9,000,000. During the year just closed the federation marketed 1,000,000 pounds of Foreign cheese, mostly Swiss. Close to 100,000 pounds of butter was manufactured in the federation's operated creamery at Dodgeville. The supply department did a business of $180,000. The federation now operates thirteen warehouses in Wisconsin and one in Minnesota. In addition it markets cheese produced by the Twin City Milk Producers from surplus milk, and Swiss and brick from about twenty factories in Southwestern Wisconsin.

Three hundred factories will send delegates to the annual meeting in Plymouth.

FARM RELIEF IN FOX RAISING IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis.—(AP)—The silver gray fox has become "farm relief" for Wisconsin agriculturists. A few years ago silver fox farms were considered a sideline for a few farmers. Today that sideline has developed into a million dollar industry for one farmer, and enclosures harboring the fur-bearing animals dot farms throughout the state.

A shipment of 7,500 silver fox pelts, valued at $1,200,000, recently was shipped under armed guard to New York by a Hamburg, Wis., fox farmer.

Burlington, Vt.—(AP)—Dairy herd records show that the average production of the five high herds in each of the 20 associations in Vermont last year was 8,300 pounds of milk.

North Oshorn and Seymour. From the stations distant from the main roads, a snow blockade will slow down the delivery of milk from the speed of a truck to that of a team.

As the patrons of the sub-station are near-at-hand the changing from trucks to teams in milk deliveries will not delay deliveries at the Appleton plant.

CLINGING FOLIAGE IS ESSENTIAL FOR HIGH GRADE ALFALEA

Wisconsin Crops Are Described in December Market News Letter

BY W. F. WINSEY

The December market news letter issued by the Wisconsin Department of Markets contains articles on vegetables, duties on foreign onions, alfalfa, Wisconsin Agriculture, and condensers and creamery prices.

"Glancing back" over 1928, potato growers, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, probably realize that the acreage and production of vegetables were greater than necessary and prices were not entirely satisfactory," says the letter. "In fact the returns in some sections were extremely low. Increased total production of apples was accomplished by fairly good prices in the east and north, but rather moderate returns in the west, where heavy crops were harvested."

"One of the outstanding developments of 1928 was an executive order dated Dec. 22, increasing the tariff on imported onions from 1 cent to 1 1/2 cents per pound. The new rate will be effective on all foreign onions arriving on and after Jan. 21, and is intended to improve the home market for domestic stock. Each year the volume of imported onions has been increasing. Spanish onions compete considerably with the fall and winter crops in this country, while Egyptians compete chiefly with new crop shipments from Texas. The past fall a very large volume of Holland stock was received, which complicated the situation further. American growers have been contending many months for an increased duty on imports."

"Furphy, a high percentage of leaves, clinging foliage, and pliable stems are the essential characteristics of high grade alfalfa. The class named 'Alfalfa' cannot contain over 3 per cent of grasses nor more than 10 per cent of other legumes. The grading factors in alfalfa are leafiness, color and foreign material. Leafiness is considered the most important grading factor because two-thirds or more of the protein of the alfalfa plant is carried in the leaves. Thus a leafy type of alfalfa is relatively high in protein and a stemmy type is relatively low.

"Overripe alfalfa at time of cutting has a relatively low degree of leafiness, hard fibrous stems, and a weak and faded color."

"Overdried alfalfa in the swath, windrow, cock or small stack, causes a severe shattering of the leaves, brittle stems and a loss of color from sunbleaching. There is considerable loss from handling such hay."

CORN IS IMPORTANT

"Corn is the most important crop in the United States and nearly 20 per cent of the crop acreage is devoted to it. It thrives best in regions having a warm and moist summer climate with warm nights as well as warm days. It is a rapidly growing crop, some varieties maturing in 80 days. Over one half of the nation's corn is usually grown in the six corn belt states."

"In Wisconsin corn is very largely grown for silage purposes, over one half of the crop being thus used in 1927. Only in the southern district of the state is it the leading crop in acreage. In all other sections it ranks after hay. Next to hay corn is the most valuable crop in Wisconsin. Its production is very closely associated with Wisconsin's livestock industry."

"In the United States oats is the third grain in acreage, corn being first and wheat second. It occupied 42,227,000 acres in 1927. One-third of the world's acreage is in the United States and not greatly unlike corn the bulk of the production is in the upper Mississippi valley where the crop seems to find the most favorable conditions."

"In Wisconsin 25 1/2 per cent of the cropped acreage was devoted to oats in 1927. Oats is exceeded in acreage only by the hay crops, and it is grown almost entirely for use on the farms. About 93 per cent of the 1927 crop was fed on the farms of the state."

"Corn can stand a wider range of climate than most other cereals and is found in nearly all states. Formerly it was grown in the United States as a milting crop but the acreage declined rapidly after the war. Recently, however, there has been a marked increase in acreage, the crop being largely for stock feeding. A large acreage is now grown in the northern corn belt states.

BARLEY BIG CROP

"In Wisconsin barley occupies 6 1/2 per cent of the cropped land. It is generally grown throughout the livestock area of the state in much the same distribution as corn, the regions of greatest density being Rock and Walworth counties, the regions east of Lake Winnebago and that adjacent to the Mississippi river in St. Croix and Pierce counties. Unlike the large acreages of over twenty years ago the crop is now finding an important place in the Wisconsin farm program as a feed crop and relatively little is sold."

"Hay is the leading farm crop in Wisconsin both from the standpoint of acreage and value. Over 35 per cent of the crop of the state is devoted to tame hay. Of this nearly 32 per cent is used for clover and timothy. The clover and timothy acreage is dense in the southern two-thirds of Wisconsin except for the sandy region in the central district, and its distribution in the state compares well with the livestock distribution. With the development of the livestock industry, hay acreage has increased rapidly, advancing from about one-half million acres in 1891 to nearly three and one-half million in 1927."

"The United States produces about 7 per cent of the world acreage of

"In Wisconsin, potatoes are grown on about 80 per cent of the farms and occupying about 3 per cent of the cropped land. The areas of the heaviest production are in the vicinities of Portage and Waupaca, the region around Milwaukee, and the newer sections around Antigo, and in Barron county."

"Growers of early potatoes report intentions of decreasing acreage 20 per cent from that of last year. The growers who reported planted 67,400 of potatoes last season, or about a fifth of the total acreage of commercial early potatoes in eleven southern and eastern states. They report intentions to plant only 47,100 acres this season."

UNHERALDED BILL EXPECTED TO GIVE REAL FARM RELIEF

Minnesota Senator Would Build Market for Farmer's Waste Products

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington, D. C.—In all probability a special session of Congress to take up the theoretical farm relief measures will be called this spring by Herbert Hoover, but before this session meets, in fact during the present short session, there may come up before the Senate an unheralded bill which provides practical farm relief outside the dreams of the American farmer. For many years Congress and government officials have recognized the fact that the American farmer is unable to market his products at a reasonable profit. It remained, however, for the blind Senator from Minnesota, Senator Thomas D. Schall, to discover from investigations carried on by scientists for twenty years, that a market for the present immense quantities of waste materials of the farm would go a long way towards relieving the financial strain upon the farmer. The farmer has always believed that such waste products of the farm as cornstalks, sugar cane stalks, straw of all kind, peanut shells and cotton seed hulls were worthless. During the past few years, however, scientists have found a means for utilizing each of these waste products and to start active work along this line, Senator Schall has introduced into the Senate a bill authorizing the appropriation of $6,550,000 to build plants throughout the country to demonstrate how chemical processes will transform agricultural wastes into profits for the American farmer. The idea is not altogether a new one. Last year $50,000 was appropriated, part of which was given to the Bureau of Standards and the remainder to the Iowa State Agricultural college at Ames, Iowa, from which research has led to the recent use of paper made from cornstalk in a number of places throughout the country. In his speech before the Senate backing his bill, Schall told how it had been demonstrated that practically 100 per cent of those waste products could be utilized, bringing from $7 to $15 an acre to the grower.

RICE STRAW MAKES PAPER
He told how scientists have discovered that sugar cane pulp can be made into paper and composition board equal in quality to that made from wood pulp. How it has been demonstrated that rice straw can be so be made into as equally good paper. And how peanut shells and cotton seed hulls, of which over 2,000,000 tons are now annually burned, can be turned into a rare chemical product called xylos. For these industries, he asks in his bill that $1,000,000 be appropriated for expenditure by the Bureau of Standards for a demonstrating plant for the manufacture of sugar cane pulp and paper, to be located at Baton Rouge, La.; $1,000,000 for a demonstrating plant for the manufacture of rice straw pulp and paper, to be located at Little Rock, Ark., and $50,000 for a plant for the manufacture of xylos from peanut shells and cotton seed hulls, to be located at Albany, Ga.

Investigating Vare's Eligibility

While "Boss" William Vare of Pennsylvania recuperates in Florida from a serious illness, this United States Senate Committee met to investigate his election to the upper house. The members are, left to right: Senator Goff of West Virginia, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, Senator Reed of Missouri, Senator King of Utah and Senator McNary of Oregon.

The remainder of the six and one-half million dollars with the exception of $500,000 is to be spent for plants demonstrating the manufacture of paper and artificial board from cornstalk and straw, to be located in Kansas, Minnesota, California and Indiana. The $500,000 is to be spent for a plant in Minnesota for the manufacture of potato alcohol. Schall has been assured by many members of both houses in Congress that he will receive strong support in the passage of his bill. Schall's bill provides that these plants be constructed by the Bureau of Standards and operated by it until they shall attract, by their commercial development, private investors who are not inclined to invest capital until the processes are shown as clearly practical. The plants will then be sold to private companies. WORK IS TRANSFERRED It is interesting to note that this work has been taken from the hands of the Department of Agriculture and turned over to the Bureau of Standards. Schall explained this in his speech, bitterly denouncing the Agriculture Department for its negligence in this matter. "The story," he said, "of the fight to get the little $50,000 appropriation last year is of great interest and point a moral for reflection concerning our Department of Agriculture which exists for the benefit of the farmer.

"This $50,000 appropriation to the Department of Commerce for the Bureau of Standards was blocked through efforts of the Agriculture Department, and it was only through intervention on the part of the then Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and President Coolidge that it was secured. "It will also be interesting to note that as much as a million dollars annually have been appropriated to the Department of Agriculture, at its request, for the development of paper pulp from other woods than spruce, while they now, through a pamphlet published and sent out since this bill was introduced, openly admit that they have known for 20 years that straw, corn stalks and sugar cane pulp could be used to make paper. "Why was this valuable discovery kept so quiet?" Why not allow our devastated timberlands to revive while using the waste products of the farms, and permanently establish our paper supply with our own borders and outside the dictation of the foreign paper trust?"

According to Schall, the United States now annually imports $275,000,000 worth of spruce pulp and its products. "Why not divert this immense sum into the pockets of the farmer?" he asks. He has estimated that paper factories using waste products in their manufacturing farmer $12 to $18 a ton for cornstalks, straw and sugar cane pulp. It is impossible to estimate just what the farmers would receive from their peanut shells and cotton seed hulls for the manufacture of xylos, as this substance at present costs so much to extract that it is not used very extensively in commercial lines. Xylos is a sugar but without food value. It is now used in the manufacture of explosives, but if it could be produced in surplus quantities, it could be used in the making of rayon and an automobile fuel. It now sells for $100 a pound.

TAXIS REPLACE HORSES ON STAMBOUL HIGHWAYS

Constantinople—(P)—What taxis have done to horse cabs is dramatically testified to by the dean of Turkish cabbies, 77-year-old Salih Agha. When, 44 years ago, the old veteran proudly rattled his first passenger over the cobble-stones of Stamboul, his shiny black carriage was one of 1,500.

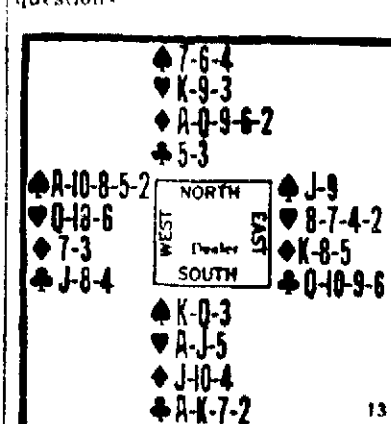

Today only eighty cabs are left in Constantinople and the old cabby is one of many who sit in the coffee houses and watch the automobiles whizz past.

Turkey now counts 9,000 motor cars in all, 3,000 of which were imported during the last year, all but 600 of the latter being imported from the United States.

How To Play Bridge

BY MILTON C. WORK

Today we give Deal C and four questions

QUESTION No. 9. What should the bidding be at Auction?
QUESTION No. 10. What should the bidding be at Contract?
QUESTION No. 11. What four cards should be played to the first trick?
QUESTION No. 12. What four cards should be played to the second trick?

THE ANSWERS

9 At Auction South should obtain the contract with a bid of one No Trump.
10 At Contract South should start by bidding one No Trump. He has the strength to bid two, but with one suit unstoppered, it is questionable whether a count of 18 justifies a one No Trump to two, and then would be amply strong enough to bid three—which would obtain the contract.
11 The first trick should be West Five of Spades. North, Six East, Jack, South, Trey South ducks this trick so as to be in position to exhaust the Spades in the last hand before trying his Diamond finesse.

If South had taken the first trick and tried the Diamond finesse on trick 2, he would not have made game; as East would have won with the Diamond King and returned a Spade through South's remaining King (or Queen) and Trey of Spades. To trick 2, East should lead the Nine of Spades. South should play the Queen West the Ace and North in West's holding up the Ace of Spades. West knows from the play that East has played his last Spade, so if West should duck the second trick and East should subsequently obtain the lead, he would not be able to lead West's established suit.

SWEDISH CAPITAL PLANS UNDERGROUND GARAGES

Stockholm—(P)—Subterranean garages of considerable proportions are to be built in Stockholm in the near future. With the general motorization of traffic, parking space is getting rarer in the Swedish capital and it has been found necessary to seek additional room underground.

Two public squares, the Hoororget Market and the Gustavus Adolphus Place, both located at vital points, have been suggested as places under which garages are to be constructed. On account of the topography of the streets surrounding the last named square, it seems ideal for the purpose, surrounded as it is by the Royal Palace, the House of Parliament the Opera, and the headquarters of the most important banks. Not only will the space provide room for a great many cars, but with only slight changes in street levels, entrances and exits in a west to east direction can be built.

Thousands Astounded by This Wonderful Easy Treatment Which Often Takes Off Fat As Rapidly As a Pound a Day

No Tedious Exercise or Starvation Diet by This Remarkable Method

Try It FREE

Many a community throughout the United States has been puzzled to see one or more of its members quickly reduce from a state of awkward obesity to normal weight with a trim, youthful figure. In many cases a change has come so rapidly, yet without any apparent reason, that the result has been the subject of common gossip. What have these men and women done? How did they accomplish this miracle and still manage to keep themselves in robust health?

"Imagine! I took off over 60 lbs. without diet or exercise." been suggested as a means of reducing fat. Starvation diets have also had their brief day of popularity. But these methods were naturally doomed to failure for the reason that only the most determined will-power can withstand the hardships and deprivations they impose. Now, however, comes this sane, sensible treatment which adheres to all modern, scientific methods and yet accomplishes the most amazing results without starvation diet or exercise.

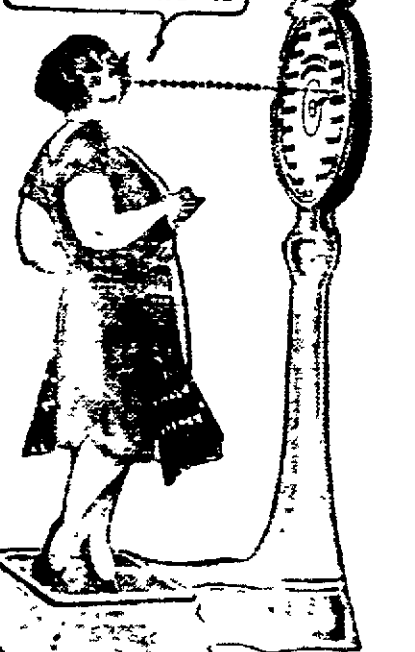

F. J. Kellogg's Rational Treatment for Obesity was formulated so that fat people could get rid of the useless tissue without either losing time from their leisure or going against a single inclination they might have toward food.

Through this remarkable method, excess fat is absorbed and eliminated

"I reduced to my normal weight—am feeling fine." by natural processes. And in so doing the skin, which has necessarily been stretched to cover the excess fat on face and body, does not shrink and shrivel, leaving wrinkles and unbecoming lines. It merely recedes naturally, so that to outward appearance the loss of 50 or even 100 pounds in very obese persons is apparent only in trimmer lines and more youthful appearance. Those who have tried the F. J. Kellogg Rational Treatment report their muscles splendidly firm, their health excellent and a feeling of freedom and well-being which they little dreamed was possible—especially by such a pleasant, convenient method. No one—man or woman—need hesitate to use the F. J. Kellogg

"Men Of The South Pole"

Shackleton's voyage from Elephant Island to far South Georgia, with five men in a rowboat, is a classic of Antarctic adventure. The voyage was horrible in its details of agony and privation. Through appalling weather, tempestuous seas, ice and gales the men endured bitter cold and wet that soaked everything from clothes to food.

At length South Georgia was reached. A heart-breaking journey across snowy mountains was the next hazard.

Finally a whaling station was reached and a ship secured. Shackleton started back after the men on Elephant Island.

After many trials Shackleton at last reached his brave little party at Elephant Island. There is another side to the adventure. The Aurora, which should have met Shackleton in the Ross Sea and placed food depots for him as far south as possible, was blown from her anchorage and carried in an ice pack into open sea far to the north.

MID-WINTER FAIR OPENS ON FEB. 27

Farmer's Institute Will Be Conducted at Same Time, Association Decides

Kaukauna—Kaukauna's Mid-Winter Fair will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 27, 28 and 29. It was decided at a meeting of the Kaukauna Advancement association Wednesday evening in the council chambers of the municipal building. The late dates were selected in the hope that the country roads will be cleared of snow. In connection with the fair, the Farmer's institute will be held.

The Farmer's institute was postponed on account of the large amount of snow on the country roads and Charles Raught suggested that it be held in conjunction with the fair. This suggestion was met with favor by other members and it was decided to hold the two affairs together if possible.

Chairman W. P. Hagman announced committees to have charge of the fair. Several of the committees have not yet been selected but will be in several more days. The committees and members are: school exhibits, J. P. Cavanaugh, Olin Dwyer and William T. Sullivan; finance, John Ditter and William F. Anderson; entertainment, Dale Anderson, commercial, Edward Haas; safety, Ernest Landreman; health, Dr. C. Boyd; registration, Mike Nielsen; admittance, Charles Towley; law and order, Chief of Police R. H. McCarthy; manufacturing exhibits, Louis Nelson and women's department, Mrs. P. Grogan.

SEEK MORE INTEREST
Mr. Hagman pointed out that the expenses will be about the same as last year. He said that there should be some new element introduced into the fair this year in order to make it more interesting. The entertainment is a large factor in the attendance and something different should be had this year. He asked for suggestions in this matter. He also urged the merchants and business men to cooperate in the affair this year as they have done in past years.

Mike Nielsen suggested that in former years there was congestion and that the snow along Oak-st should be removed this year to provide ample parking space for cars. His suggestion will be carried out.

Carl Hansen urged that something be done about clearing the main roads near the city. He stated that the Highway Sanitation road was closed to traffic for four days and that highway 41 was closed for a week. The county has been clearing the roads in this section last, he said, and added that he believes the city was entitled to have the roads cleared first in this section for a change.

John Nielsen disagreed with Mr. Hansen and said that the Sanitation road is the first road to be opened after a snow storm. It may have been drifted shut after that but was opened after the storm and was not closed for four days, he said. Mr. Nielsen is a supervisor.

WOULD ENTER PROTEST
Ernest Landreman said that the roads in this section were always last in being opened and a protest should be made before the county highway commission. He stated that the roads near Appleton are always opened and that Kaukauna is also entitled to some consideration.

Malachi Ryan said that with the severe windstorms that raged last week it was impossible to keep county roads open. If the county can keep the roads open from Kaukauna to Appleton in the winter weather they can do little more, he stated. The county highway committee will be notified on the matter.

In discussing snow removal Mike Nielsen said that the road leading to the Kaukauna Pulp mill was closed. It is located in the city and employs about 85 men and the road should be kept open, he said. The matter will be taken up with the city.

Louis Nelson asked if anything was being done about the Congress hotel. Charles Raught said that it has been mortgaged for sale and that the matter will be cleared up by spring. He said that the business men should start considering what can be done with it when the matter is cleared up.

The terms of three directors, Lester Brenzel, John Coppes, and W. P. Hagman, expire in March. President Ben Prugh appointed Carl Hansen, Joseph Wittman and W. Brier as a nominating committee. Election of three new directors will be held at the next monthly meeting.

WANT BETTER SERVICE
Herman T. Runts urged that the association take action on seeing that the officials of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad company give better service at the north side depot. He said that at the 7 o'clock train in the morning there is no station agent present and when a person wants to ship baggage on that train he must have it checked the night before. He moved that the secretary see the railroad officials on the matter.

Mike Nielsen said that a step more should be taken and that the officials should be asked to improve the present depot. There is enough business there to warrant such an

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FOCH GAINING IN BATTLE ON HIS DISEASE

Slight Improvement of Last Three Days Continues, Bulletin Declares

Paris (AP)—Word that Marshal Ferdinand Foch was somewhat better Thursday, was given out by his doctors after a long consultation at his bedside. The bulletin said that a slight improvement noted during the last three days was continuing.

As they left the marshal's home the doctors added that he had slept rather well during the night and that his spirits were still high.

His strength, they continued, was apparently ample to carry him through to victory in the counter-offensive he is carrying on against a heart attack which compelled him to retreat to his bed last week.

While most of Paris was still abed, the marshal's closest friend, General Weygand, arrived at the home of his chief. He was there when the doctors arrived at 8:15 and remained until they left at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

General Weygand told a friend that his hopes were higher than ever for marshal's recovery.

MILLERAND CALLS

Former President Millerand was a caller at 9 o'clock. A few minutes later a bishop arrived to sign the register. Then the minister from the Dominican republic stepped from a taxicab and asked for news.

Next came a milkmaid, her back burdened with three two gallon cans. She stepped through the great wood-paneled doorway and asked the concierge: "Tell me is he better, monsieur le maréchal?"

After her came a general, then a colonel and then the secretary of a foreign embassy. So it went all day with people of all classes and representatives of many nations of the world calling to inquire after the health of France's greatest living soldier.

RESTS COMFORTABLY

Dr. Davenieres returned to his patient for a few minutes at noon just as the marshal was having his rather thin lunch of hot milk and soup. The doctor later said that the patient was "a little better," that his spirits were good and that he was resting comfortably.

Major L'Hopital, the marshal's faithful aide, and one of the few visitors privileged to enter the house, made his usual morning call but did not see his chief. In the meantime the caller's register is being filled with more prominent names. The Papal Nuncio, Archbishop Maglione, attended by two messengers, called in person Thursday to sign the register.

Premier Poincare personally gave his colleagues in the cabinet the latest report on the marshal's condition Thursday morning, even before the various political problems of the agenda were taken up. News of the marshal's illness was also a big item on Thursday's wireless broadcast from the Eiffel tower.

WOMAN WINS POINT IN $25,000 SUIT AGAINST APPLETON

United States District Court Overrules Demurrer Entered by City

Mrs. Lucinda N. Calvert, whose $25,000 damage suit against the city is still pending after about two years of litigation, recently won a point in her favor when Judge F. A. Geiger of the United States court for the eastern district of Wisconsin overruled the demurrer entered by the city and gave the city 20 days to answer the complaint.

The city now must answer or take an appeal on a question of law to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago.

A suit grew out of an accident the College-ave sidewalk in front of Bellini's Drug store in November, 1926, when Mrs. Calvert, wife of Col. Edward Calvert, who was then stationed here, tripped on a water pipe which extended about one and one-half inches above the surface of the walk.

Mrs. Calvert fractured her hip, causing permanent injuries, she alleges in her suit.

She sued on the grounds that the pipe was not part of the walk, but was a nuisance and the action was begun here in circuit court. The city demurred to the complaint on the grounds that there was no cause of action, holding that notice of the accident should have been given within 15 days after it occurred.

Losing its case in circuit court, the city appealed to the state supreme court, which found that the complaint did not state facts for a cause of action and ordered the litigation returned to the circuit court. When the case was returned, the plaintiff had an order entered dismissing the case and paying the costs.

Then she began action for the same amount in the federal court.

SUNSET PLAYERS SCORE SUCCESS AT PRODUCTION

"Children of the Moon," Three-act Play, Is Presented at College Chapel

Sunset Players, Lawrence college dramatic organization, scored a signal success in the presentation of "Children of the Moon," a three-act play, at Memorial chapel Wednesday night. This play, the second major production of the organization, was directed by Miss Lucile Welty, instructor in public speaking.

The play concerned the strange "moon madness" which affected the Atherton family and the action centered around the efforts of Madame Atherton to save her grand-daughter, Jane, from the folly of her mother.

The role of Laura, the neurotic mother, played by Josephine Dickhoff, Port Atkinson, was exceedingly well done and was undoubtedly the most difficult role in the play. The character of the selfish mother was well drawn and her effect on the other players was felt.

Ardis Elston, La Crosse, who played the leading role of Jane Atherton, took her part very well and was at her best during the second and third acts when the effect of this "moon madness" showed itself in her life. Playing opposite her was George Krause, Oshkosh, who took the part of Major Banister, an aviator, whom Jane refuses to marry when she finds out about the affliction of the family. Mr. Krause was well suited to carry the part of the handsome aviator and his voice and interpretation of the emotional scenes was good.

The part of Judge Atherton, played by Timothy Bright, Lyons, alighted a minor part in the play, was forced, while that of Madame Atherton, played by Helene Holset, Red Wing, Minn., was the typical dramatic mother role. The part of Walter Higgs, a cockney mechanic, was played by Arthur Steinfeld, that of Doctor Wetherell by John Walter, and that of Thomas, the butler, by Don Christensen.

A new set, made by Frank Granberg and other members of the production staff, was used in the play. Various effects were brought out during the presentation, the most of the surf was clearly heard all through the play, a fog horn blew, aeroplane motors hummed and a fog slowly rose from the sea.

As a financial venture, the play was thoroughly successful, according to Arthur Mueller, business manager of the production. The next sunset production will be given on March 22, when the club will present a modern costume play at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

STOCKS IN SHARP RALLY ON EXCHANGE

U. S. Steel Common Touches 173 3-8 During First Half Hour of Trading

New York (AP)—A brisk rally in prices took place at the opening of Thursday's stock market under the leadership of U. S. Steel Common, which crossed 172 to the highest point since the declaration of the 40 per cent stock dividend more than two years ago. Electric Auto-Lite opened with a bid of 7.00, shares at 150, up 1/4, and a new high record. General Electric, Radio and Television, and Curtiss and Wright, all showed initial gains of 2 to 3 points.

Retention of the 4 1/2 per cent discount rate by the Bank of England Thursday generally was interpreted as foreshadowing the maintenance of the 5 per cent rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank, all of which met after the close of the market. This helped to revive bullish confidence and stimulated pool activity in a wide assortment of issues.

Speculative opinion was sharply divided as to what the broker's long figures will show when published Thursday afternoon. Associated Press weighted indices revealed that the industrial stocks lost ground during the past week while the rails improved slightly and the public utilities showed a substantial gain. New bond offerings have of late been light, but there have been a number of fairly heavy stock issues during the past week.

U. S. Steel Common extended its initial advance to 173 3/8 points by touching 172 3/8 before the end of the first half hour. Coppers were heavily bought with Anaconda, Greene Cananea and International Nickel in the forefront of the advance.

Heavy buying of New York Central, which quickly advanced more than 4 points in the face of an inquiry by the Interstate Commerce commission to determine excess profits under the "recapture clause" of the transportation act, also attracted widespread attention.

General Electric, Commercial Solvents, Electric Auto-Lite, Wright Aeronautical and Curtiss all jumped 4 to nearly 7 points in the early outburst of buying. Foreign exchanges opened firm, with sterling cables quoted around $45.

STOCKS IN SHARP RALLY ON EXCHANGE

U. S. Steel Common Touches 173 3-8 During First Half Hour of Trading

New York (AP)—A brisk rally in prices took place at the opening of Thursday's stock market under the leadership of U. S. Steel Common, which crossed 172 to the highest point since the declaration of the 40 per cent stock dividend more than two years ago. Electric Auto-Lite opened with a bid of 7.00, shares at 150, up 1/4, and a new high record. General Electric, Radio and Television, and Curtiss and Wright, all showed initial gains of 2 to 3 points.

Retention of the 4 1/2 per cent discount rate by the Bank of England Thursday generally was interpreted as foreshadowing the maintenance of the 5 per cent rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank, all of which met after the close of the market. This helped to revive bullish confidence and stimulated pool activity in a wide assortment of issues.

Speculative opinion was sharply divided as to what the broker's long figures will show when published Thursday afternoon. Associated Press weighted indices revealed that the industrial stocks lost ground during the past week while the rails improved slightly and the public utilities showed a substantial gain. New bond offerings have of late been light, but there have been a number of fairly heavy stock issues during the past week.

U. S. Steel Common extended its initial advance to 173 3/8 points by touching 172 3/8 before the end of the first half hour. Coppers were heavily bought with Anaconda, Greene Cananea and International Nickel in the forefront of the advance.

Heavy buying of New York Central, which quickly advanced more than 4 points in the face of an inquiry by the Interstate Commerce commission to determine excess profits under the "recapture clause" of the transportation act, also attracted widespread attention.

General Electric, Commercial Solvents, Electric Auto-Lite, Wright Aeronautical and Curtiss all jumped 4 to nearly 7 points in the early outburst of buying. Foreign exchanges opened firm, with sterling cables quoted around $45.

TWO DOZEN BILLS THROWN IN HOPPER OF STATE LAWMAKERS

Revive Proposal to Put Treasurer in Charge of Treasury Agent

Madison — (P) — Two dozen new bills were before committees on revision in the legislature Thursday following their presentation in both houses Wednesday.

The proposal that was defeated last session to put the state oil inspector in the treasury department, was again presented by Assemblyman John Fronck of Antigo. It would be a misdemeanor for a collection agency to withhold from its subscriber any fee or bill it collected for more than ten days after collection, under a bill by Assemblyman Barber of Marathon.

He would also empower railroads to purchase the stock and business of other public utilities, in a second bill brought before the Assembly. The present law makes provisions regarding a utility taking over an allied business, but says nothing about railroads buying light and power companies, for instance.

The same author presented a measure modifying the law under which boys and girls may be sentenced to state industrial schools until they are 21 and 18, respectively to allow their commitment for only one to two years.

MORE TAIL LIGHTS
Assemblyman Budlong of Marinette presented a bill under which electric energy sold outside the boundaries of the state by Wisconsin companies could be sold no cheaper than it is to Wisconsin consumers. He also presented the measure that came in last session requiring tail lights on all vehicles; the present law requiring them only on autos and trucks.

Appropriations for land clearing demonstrations by the college of agriculture will be discontinued if a measure introduced in the Senate is passed. Sen. James A. Barker, who presented the bill, declared too much land has already been cleared in the state, and farmers should not be encouraged to increase the acreage.

An open season on mink and muskrat in Grant, Vernon, Crawford, and Richland counties is requested in Senator E. J. Roethlisberger's bill.

The senate received a petition signed by 2,000 Kenosha citizens protesting against an increase in the gasoline tax. Another petition, presented by Sen. J. H. Carroll, from citizens of Sawyer and Price-counties for an all-weather road between Milwaukee and Superior.

Arthur Hitt, Assemblyman-school teacher from Alma would give county school superintendents a four-year term and provide that all new ones hereafter must hold unlimited teachers' certificates.

The old proposal to cut down the age limit to which a child must attend the vocational school, from 15

HOOVER'S PASTOR AT WASHINGTON

It is unusual for a Quaker church to have a pastor as services are conducted by the members, but President-elect Herbert Hoover has arranged for Dr. Augustus T. Murray, above, of Palo Alto, Calif., to take charge of his church at Washington March 1. Dr. Murray, formerly a professor of Greek at Stanford University, has known Hoover since they were students there.

to 16 years was presented by Assemblyman John W. Groshmidt, of South Milwaukee, with another amendment which any town, city or village might establish a vocational school. Larger towns are the only ones empowered to do so under the present law.

Assemblyman Cords, of Milwaukee, presented a bill cutting the salary of county supervisors and chairmen from $2,000 to $1,500 and $1,800 a year respectively. Assemblyman Wallace Ingalls, Racine, gave the lower house, a joint resolution, which will call for a committee of three Senators and five Assemblymen to confer with any similar committee from the state of Illinois on a uniform gasoline tax in the two states.

He also presented the joint resolution for approval of the United States Senate's ratification of the Kellogg treaty.

RELIGIOUS MAN LIKE TREE THAT BEARS GOOD FRUIT

Bishop Smith Tells Mission Audience Not to Bother
About Evolution

Comparing humanity to an apple tree, Bishop H. Lester Smith showed the difference between the life which lives without God and the life which is guided by the love of Jesus in his sermon at the Methodist church Wednesday evening.

The speaker drew a parallel between the crab apple tree bearing small, sour fruit and the man who has no spiritual life, and likened the life of a man who walks with God to the tree which bears the delicious, red apple. In his analogy he pointed out that one of the most comforting things about Christianity is that God and humanity can be combined, proving the likeness between man and the Supreme Being on the basis that grafting can take place only in fruits of the same family.

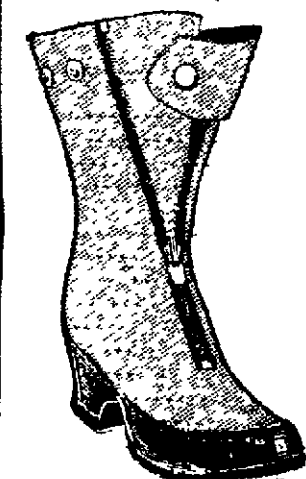

Discussing the question of evolution, Bishop Smith stated that, we should concern ourselves less with how we came to be and more with what we are now. "Make a correct appraisal of man's situation with reference to God right now," he said, and don't spend time on non-essentials. Learn how to surrender your will to God and the divine life will be represented in your actions.
